Marine General Dies In Vietnam

Saigon (AP) — The U.S. command said Wednesday ground fire caused the crash of a helicopter that killed Maj. Gen. Bruno A. Hochmuth, commander of the U.S. 3rd Marine Division, on an inspection flight 400 miles north of Saigon.

Hochmuth was the second American general to die in the Vietnam war. A lantern-jawed Texan, 56, who took command of the 3rd Division March 18, he dropped 1,000 feet with the shattered helicopter into a lake.

5 Others Die

The command said five other persons died with Hochmuth. It had been announced earlier that four other persons were in the craft. The five listed later were three members of the helicopter crew and two members of the general's personal staff, one a Vietnamese interpreter and the other an American staff officer.

The original report on the incident said the cause of the crash had not been determined, but headquarters officers in Saigon had said it apparently was not the result of enemy ground fire.

Marine officers said earlier, however, they did not rule out the possibility of hostile action as the cause, and Wednesday's official communique said the helicopter "was hit by ground fire and crashed." It added that the chopper had been flying between 1,000 and 1,500 feet and that eyewitnesses "observed what appeared to be a mid-air explosion in the general's helicopter."

Replacement

The Marine Corps named Maj. Gen. Rathvon McC. Tompkins, 55 to replace Hochmuth. Tompkins, a native of Boulder, Colo., is commander of the Marine recruit depot at Parris Island, S.C.

Though at least three American generals have been wounded in combat in Vietnam, the first to perish in the war was Maj. Gen. William J. Crumm, 48, commander of the Strategic Air Command's 3rd Air Division on Guam.

Crumm was killed with five crewmen in the collision of two B52 bombers over the South China Sea July 6 as they were en route to attack a Communist target in South Vietnam.

In war operations Wednesday, American B52 bombers returned to the embattled Dak To sector to pound North Vietnamese forces and build-up areas behind their lines with two more raids.

The latest two raids, the third and fourth in two days, came during a lull in ground fighting in the central highlands area, 270 miles north of Saigon.

In all, the B52 bombers have mounted 14 raids in the sector since the fighting erupted two weeks ago.

Cargo Planes Hit

North Vietnamese mortarmen shelled the allied airfield at Dak To a few hours after the B52 raids Wednesday morning. First reports said two U.S. C130 transport cargo planes were hit.

Reports from the fighting zone also told of a hit-run attack early Wednesday by a small North Vietnamese unit against a South Vietnamese army compound at Kontum City, a provincial capital 25 miles south of Dak To.

Ranged against each other at Dak To are an estimated 8,000 North Vietnamese and perhaps 6,000 American troops plus South Vietnamese army units and Vietnamese irregulars.

Clash In Delta

South Vietnamese headquarters reported a sharp clash deep in the Mekong Delta 108 miles southwest of Saigon. A government spokesman said Vietnamese troops killed 34 Viet Cong and captured eight others while taking light casualties themselves.

U.S. air actions over North Vietnam were curtailed again Tuesday by monsoon storms, as they have been for more than a week.

The foul weather once more limited most of the strikes to North Vietnam's southern panhandle, although Marine Corps and Navy planes managed some bombing runs north of Hanoi and east of Haiphong.

Witnesses Banned

Blantyre, Malawi (AP)—President Hastings Banda has appointed Malawi's registrar general, W.S.A. Warren, to wind up the affairs of the banned Jehovah's Witnesses and dispose of their assets, conservatively estimated at $70,000.

Car-Train Crash Kills Sutherland Man

Sutherland (AP) — A 122-car eastbound Union Pacific freight train struck a car at a rural crossing east of here Tuesday, killing the vehicle's lone occupant.

Authorities identified the victim as Reyes R. Martinez, 64, of Sutherland.

A railroad spokesman said the accident happened at a county road crossing protected by a standard warning sign.

Dale Langley, who had just driven his farm truck loaded with hay across the crossing, said he yelled at Martinez but was unable to attract his attention. A railroad spokesman said the southbound hay truck may have blocked the view of Martinez, who was headed north.

The death brought to 374 the state's highway death toll for 1967. A year ago on this date the total was 367.

Sewer Bonds Also Defeated

. . . IN HEAVY VOTE

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln voters thrashed city hall Tuesday, turning out in near record numbers for a city special election to defeat the minimum housing standards code by more than a 2½-1 margin and the $5 million storm sewer bond issue 4-3.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf, who termed the housing code "the most important issue to face the city in a decade," and the City Council had plugged vigorously for the issue.

So thoroughly was it defeated that it carried only 11 of the city's 135 precincts. The vote was tied in another.

20,888 Against

Out of an unofficial 28,925 votes cast, 20,888 were against the housing code and 7,993 were in favor.

The storm sewer bond issue was defeated 16,096 to 12,678.

Opponents of the code hailed the election results as a "defense of freedom" at the polls, while Mayor Schwartzkopf pledged his effort to "continue to work for any issue that in our sincere opinion will improve our city."

Dewitt Wewee, secretary of the Lincoln Homeowners and Taxpayers League, the organization that sponsored a petition drive to place the council-approved ordinance on the ballot, said the Lincoln electorate "saved themselves taxes and freedom by their vote.

Disapproval

"The voters are expressing their disapproval of elected officials who chose to ignore the voice of the majority and become obedient to an influential special interest."

Wewee said the vote reflected resentment against officials who "turned against such a large segment of voters and labeled them irresponsible and uninformed, just because we dared to disagree with a few politicians."

C. A. Bates, 200 West Saunders, an outspoken critic of minimum housing standards, said he was "surprised by the margin." "This shows," he said, "that the people are tired of City Hall."

Defended Rights

"Once again the people of Lincoln have successfully defended their rights at the polls," commented attorney Lawrence Murphy, Homeowners and Taxpayers League volunteer.

A disappointed mayor said Tuesday night, "It worries me to see that a few vocal opposition leaders, some whose self interests are directly opposed to making Lincoln a more progressive city, were able to influence this election by use of scare and fear tactics.

"However, this defeat will not stop or discourage my administration or the City Council" from working for other issues "that will improve our city."

Backwards

Council vice-chairman Lloyd Hinkley termed the housing code defeat "a giant step backwards."

He said that "concerned Lincoln citizens" had hoped "to prevent the decay that is now causing serious social problems in so many cities across the United States. We also hoped to help our senior citizens and their housing needs."

Councilman Bill Davidson observed that "It's possible the full message and impact of the housing code was not presented to the people as properly as we might have."

Disappointed

Kenneth King, chairman if the Lincoln Housing Authority, was equally as disappointed. The authority needed approval of the code to qualify for federal housing aid programs.

"The activities of the housing authority in connection with our two major items—the air base housing and the housing for the elderly — will have to be decided by our commissioners.

"The housing for the elderly program can be satisfied in a less adequate way through our leasing program; but what happens to the base housing is certainly an unknown at this point."

King said, "Undoubtedly,

Anti-Rusk Mob, Police Battle

New York (AP) — A riotous mob screaming "Peace!" battled police for control of Sixth Avenue Tuesday night, as a violent antiwar demonstration against Secretary of State Dean Rusk spread half a mile along the busy midtown thoroughfare.

Shoulder to shoulder at some points, charging the mob at intervals, massed police cleared the avenue after two hours of melee that surged between 55th and 42nd Streets. In its aftermath, Sixth Avenue was littered with debris.

Rusk addressed a dinner meeting of the Foreign Policy Association at the New York Hilton Hotel, on Sixth Avenue between 53rd and 54th Streets.

Deplores War

He told his audience of 1,200 that he deplored the Vietnam war as much as the next man, was willing to negotiate with Hanoi, but he insisted that the United States must honor its pledge of security for South Vietnam.

Rusk spoke in a ballroom tightly guarded by police against any attempt by the demonstrators to invade it from outside the hotel.

Police reported 21 arrests had been made.

Seven injuries were reported, including four policemen.

State Department security men whisked Rusk from Washington to New York ahead of his announced schedule and had him inside the hotel well before the demonstration reached its peak.

The demonstrators began gathering in late afternoon and swelled by police estimate to more than 2,500 with the descent of chill autumn darkness. It was then that the violence began, with the pickets shouting, "Peace!" even as turmoil was sown.

Terrified theatergoers found themselves trapped in taxicabs that were rocked by the demonstrators. The windshield of one cab was kicked in.

Girls Profane

Young girls in the throng shouted obscenities and pounded on the windows of passing automobiles. Traffic inched to a standstill.

False alarms were turned in. A trash basket was set afire. The arrival of fire-fighting equipment added to the traffic stalemate.

The demonstrators appeared to be directed with semimilitary precision by their leaders, who shouted orders through loudspeakers.

Variety

In the mob were hippies and bearded types, school-age youngsters, and well-dressed, middle-aged men and women. Buckets of water were emptied on the crowd from the fifth floor of a building at 46th Street.

"All that is being asked of North Vietnam," Rusk declared, "is that they get their troops out of South Vietnam and Laos and stop training guerrillas for Thailand."

"Those who deplore the violence, as I do, should know that all the violence could end within hours with minimum cooperation in Hanoi," he said.

Joan Baez Senses Progress In Nonviolent Drive

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Joan Baez said Tuesday she believes she can sense a spark of progress in the nonviolent movement against war and violence.

"I think I can see the beginnings, an inkling that we are beginning to make ourselves clear," Miss Baez told a news conference in Lincoln.

And so, she said, she will "continue to march to keep a spark from dying."

Christmas In Jail?

Miss Baez, the 26-year-old folk singer who will perform at Pershing Auditorium Wednesday night, may spend Christmas in jail.

Jailed for 10 days last month for her participation in an anti-draft demonstration at the Oakland Army Induction Center, she is planning to join in a similar demonstration Dec. 18, either at Oakland or at San Francisco.

"I will probably go back to jail," she said. "Merry Christmas. But I've made up my mind to ask no favors and produce no bail."

Rejects Convention

Miss Baez rejects the conventional political arena as a forum in which to stand her ground because it would be "difficult to maintain your integrity."

The place for the power and energies of the nonviolent movement is "in the streets," she said.

JOAN BAEZ

Miss Baez, who said she has been involved in nonviolent politics for seven years, founded and operates an Institute for the Study of Nonviolence at Carmel, Calif.

The institute's director, Ira Sandperl, accompanied her on the trip to Lincoln.

Makes Contacts

While she sings, "he makes contacts with pacifists in whatever country or state we may be in," Miss Baez explained.

What Miss Baez is really struggling to help achieve, she said, is "the brotherhood of man . . . and that's an enormous job."

She rejects nationalism and nation-states.

"Pledging allegiance to the American flag is absolute madness" in that context, she suggested, "because every nation does the same thing.

'Makes It Right'

"Then, it's okay as long as you're holding the flag in one hand to blow up people. The flag makes it all right."

Nationality is an accident of birth, Miss Baez pointed out.

"We're all brothers and sisters," she noted. "We need each other."

Killing people is immoral, Miss Baez said, and cannot be excused in warfare by nationalism.

"The old patterns have gotten us to the brink of World War III," she said.

'Practical'

"It is very practical . . . to set aside the possibility of killing people and seriously consider the alternatives — which we've never done."

Students should be learning about "life, love, decency and humanity," Miss Baez said, rather than just being taught to be "good American citizens."

Miss Baez rejects the separatism of Black Power as "a despair cry" by Negroes, and believes the drop-out efforts of hippies are senseless since "we were born involved."

Rejects Drugs

She rejects drugs, but wonders "why isn't life interesting, kind and decent enough that people do not have to take a 'trip' in the sky?"

The "nonviolent soldier" who seeks to change the world must be willing "to accept suffering, but never consciously inflict it," Miss Baez said.

This, she said, she is willing to do.

Senator Contends Protesters Need Not Be Inducted

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., asked the Justice Department Tuesday to rule on his contention that students interfering with Selective Service should be fined or jailed—not drafted.

In a letter to Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, Hart opposed a recommendation by Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey that student protesters interfering with the draft or military recruiting be subject to immediate induction.

Hart said he did not intend to encourage "illegal or irresponsible protests." But, he said, "Under state and federal law there are sanctions in the form of fines and jail terms which can be applied to illegal acts of protest."

Shirley Temple Black Loses To War Veteran; Runoff Set

Redwood City, Calif. (AP) — Paul N. McCloskey, who won a Silver Star in the Korean War and favors immediate negotiations to end the Vietnam War, defeated former child movie star Shirley Temple Black Tuesday for the Republican nomination for Congress.

McCloskey, 40, will face Democrat Roy A. Archibald, 47, in a runoff election Dec. 12 since none of the candidates got more than 50% of the total vote in the 11th Congressional District special election.

Mrs. Black's bad news started coming within minutes of the closing of the polls when she lost her home precinct.

With all but 11 of San Mateo County's 575 precincts counted, McCloskey piled up 50,634 votes to 33,015 for Mrs. Black.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE BLACK

Archibald led his nearest Democratic rival, Edward M. Keating, 14,645 to 8,546.

Archibald favors an "all-out diplomatic offensive to bring about negotiations . . . we should stop our bombing of the North."

Archibald is West Coast representative of the National Education Association.

Mrs. Black had favored "leaving the tactics of waging the Vietnam war to the experienced military leaders of the United States."

The special election was to fill the seat vacated by the death of Rep. J. Arthur Younger, a Republican.

Democrats have an edge in the county registration, but California law permits a vote for any candidate, regardless of party.

When Mrs. Black first announced her candidacy, many outsiders forecast a landslide in which she would win on the first election or least finish far out in front.

Charmer As Child

This belief was based on the enduring image of a curly haired little girl who charmed the nation and the world 30 years ago as the lovable star of a series of saccharine motion pictures.

This did not prove true, however, in the district where the voters live.

Her male opponents campaigned vigorously. Television, radio, billboards, bumper stickers, mass rallies and all the adjuncts of big-time political campaigning came into play.

Estimates were that some individual campaign costs ran as high as $200,000.

College In Ohio Closes Classes

Wilberforce, Ohio (AP)—Classes at Central State University, scene of a wild riot Monday night, were closed Tuesday "for the safety and welfare of the student body."

University President Harry Groves announced the closing, "by order of the board of trustees," and asked students to leave the campus and go to their homes as soon as possible.

The action came 15 hours after about 200 National Guardsmen joined civilian law enforcement officers in putting down a destructive disturbance at the school in southwest Ohio. The rioting caused injury to 10 law officers—one had a broken leg—and the arrest of 91 persons.

Attendance Light

Classes during the day had been open, but lightly attended, on the predominantly Negro campus of 2,700 students.

The classroom shutdown came shortly after trustees chairman John F. Bustamonte announced he had asked the governor's office to reinforce the National Guard contingent on the campus or on alert nearby.

A spokesman in the governor's office said talks with Guard officials indicated no reinforcements were needed.

All of the 91 persons arrested during the three-hour melee Monday night were released from jail on bonds by noon Tuesday. These included Michael Warren, 23, a former student who was expelled from the university last week.

Post Bond

He was arrested at Yellow Springs, eight miles north of the campus, on a trespass charge and posted a $100 bond. Others arrested were freed on bonds of $25 each on disorderly conduct counts.

Warren was ordered off the campus after being expelled for threatening bodily harm to President Rembert Stokes of neighboring Wilberforce University. Stokes said the threat came during a demonstration on the Wilberforce campus.

Warren's unauthorized return to the campus Monday touched off a series of incidents which led to the nighttime riots outside student dormitories.

Tough Air Pollution Bill Is Sent To LBJ

© New York Times Service

Washington — Congress passed and sent to President Johnson Tuesday clean-air legislation that empowers the federal government to virtually immobilize a city if air pollution causes a serious health hazard.

The bill, which the President has included on his list of important legislation this year, provides for a three-year, $428 million program to combat air pollution. The Senate had approved a $700 million program but bowed to House demands for a lower figure.

The bill also includes $125 million earmarked for research to place the blame for dirty air that threatens urban dwellers.

Congress rejected the concept of national emission standards sought by Johnson, but it authorized a two-year study.

The measure still leaves the initiative to the states to set up clean-air standards and to plan clean-up campaigns. However, if the states fail to act promptly, the secretary of health, education and welfare is authorized to set standards.

The HEW secretary also is authorized — within 18 months of passage of the bill — to designate air quality regions for existing problem areas, and the bill further grants the federal government additional time to act as new areas emerge. In addition, he can set up commissions to function in regions where air pollution problems overlap states and the states fail to act.

Saigon Puts Stress On Social Reforms

© New York Times Service

Saigon — Premier Nguyen Van Loc Wednesday delivered the new Saigon government's first "program of action" that emphasized social reforms and muted the prospects of peace.

In a broad and, at times, gloomy speech on the problems immediately facing the country, Loc urged land reform, reorganization of education, refugee relief, a reduction of the government budget, "the eradication . . . of corruption from the top to the bottom" and increased military support for the pacification of villages and hamlets.

"The scale of values of our society has successively been upset as the result of many events," the premier said in a speech prepared for delivery.

'Erosion Of Society'

"This has led to an erosion of our society, with the psychological result that everyone has become discontent and cynical.

"It seems to many of us that there is little hope for us to get what we need and what we are entitled to, and little chance to hold on to what we have."

Only a small portion of the 6,000-word speech discussed peace—with nothing specifically spelled out in the way of negotiations or proposals to end the war.

Army To Be Overhauled

Some of Loc's policies were blunt and specific. In his proposals on the South Vietnamese armed forces, for example, he reiterated what several high government officials have said recently: that the army, whose performance has displeased many Americans, would be overhauled.

"The chain of command will be reorganized to rapidly meet battlefield requirements," said Loc. "Rewards and punishments will be equitable, injustice and favoritism will be eradicated as soon as possible, as will corrupt practices such as misuse of power."

Other proposals, however, were vague. Discussing the "eradication of social ills," Loc said only that the government will "gradually" take measures to "diminish the debauched aspect of the city and the excessive gap between life in the city and the countryside."

Security

Loc said the first task of the government would be "to provide security for the people and raise their material standards of living."

On land reform, he said, "The government will distribute public lands to peasants, re-establish 500,000 expired land leases, and issue ownership certificates to 110,500 peasants who have purchased expropriated rice fields."

Loc also urged a streamlining of the judiciary, which is hampered by red tape and an unwieldly bureaucracy, and said the government will take efficient measures to increase income and to reduce expenditures and avoid budget deficits.

Appeal Planned In Indictment Decision

Grand Island (AP) — Special prosecutors for the Hall County grand jury moved Tuesday to appeal a decision dismissing indictments against the Hall County attorney and two other persons.

The prosecutors notified the District Court they are making application for permission to file error proceedings in the Nebraska Supreme Court.

This in effect is an appeal from a decision by District Judge Norris Chadderdon of Holdrege, who dismissed fraud charges against Hall County Attorney Robert Paulick, Donald E. Terry and Virgil H. Olson.

Pleas Upheld

Judge Chadderdon had upheld Oct. 30 pleas in abatement by defense attorneys alleging legal irregularities in grand jury proceedings. Judge Chadderdon ordered that indictments against the three defendants be dismissed and the three men be discharged. The plea in abatement does not bar renewal of the action in another form.

A motion by the special prosecutors for a new hearing was refused Monday and the prosecutors filed a motion asking approval by Judge Chadderdon for leave to file with the Supreme Court.

If the high court upholds the prosecutors' application, the defendants would be rearrested on the fraud charge and the grand jury proceedings would again start.

The three were indicted Feb. 27 for allegedly conspiring to defraud the state. Details on the specific charges have never been released by the court.

Blaze Loss $175,000; Rebuilding 'Possible'

Lincoln Star Special

Fairmont—After surveying the smouldering ruins of his cafe, private club, gift shop and filling station, Ernest E. Mumby Tuesday placed the "total loss" at $175,000.

Flames broke out Monday afternoon in the well known business complex located at the west edge of Fairmont, destroying Mumby's Cafe, private Stockman's Club, a gift shop featuring foreign imports, three private offices, a lounge and bar and the filling station.

Mumby disclosed late Tuesday that he might "possibly" rebuild, although he has not definitely decided.

The fire apparently started in a kitchen adjoining the private club and cafe, Mumby said. Grease near an electric broiler ignited and the fire spread rapidly, he explained.

Flames knocked glass from the windows of the filling station, but did not reach the gas pumps at the front of the wood-frame and brick building.

Everything Closed

However, everything was closed Tuesday, including the filling station. Only an outside shell of the building remains standing.

Situated at the junction of U.S. Highways 6 and 81, the complex had been developed since Mr. and Mrs. Mumby and their son, Ernest B., took over the truck stop 20 years ago.

The latest addition was the year-old Stockman's Club with a membership of 1,200.

Specializing in expensive original procelain figurines imported from Italy, France, Germany, Austria, Britain and Hong Kong, the gift shop attracted tourists from all of the states. Stock on hand at the time of the blaze was set at $30,000.

Fire departments from McCool Junction, Exeter, Grafton, Geneva and York joined Fairmont firefighters in battling the flames.

The firm employed 35 persons, Mumby stated.

2 Towns Listed 98 Degrees For October's High

An 87 degree spread in temperatures was recorded in Nebraska during October.

The mercury climbed to 98 degrees at Beaver City and Merriman on Oct. 3, but dropped to 11 degrees at Harrisburg on Oct. 27, the Lincoln Weather Bureau noted in its monthly weather review.

A wide variance in precipitation also was noted.

In east central Nebraska, precipitation averaged 155% of normal, while the Panhandle received only 46% of normal.

Falls City was the wet spot, with 6.54 inches of rain received during the month.

Nebraska Man Admits His Guilt

Cambridge, Mass. (AP)—A Nebraska man pleaded guilty in Middlesex Superior Court Tuesday to the armed holdup Sept. 19 of the North Chelmsford branch of the Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

Judge John J. Goddaire Jr. sentenced Gareth W. Robinson, 26, of Wahoo, Neb., to 7-15 years for armed robbery. Robinson a former Lowell resident, is on parole from the Leavenworth, Kan., Federal prison.

Chicago Garage Of St. Valentine's Killings Removed

Chicago (AP)—Wreckers have removed a grisly Chicago landmark, the garage at where the St. Valentine's Day gangland massacre took place in 1929.

A home for the elderly is to be built on the site.

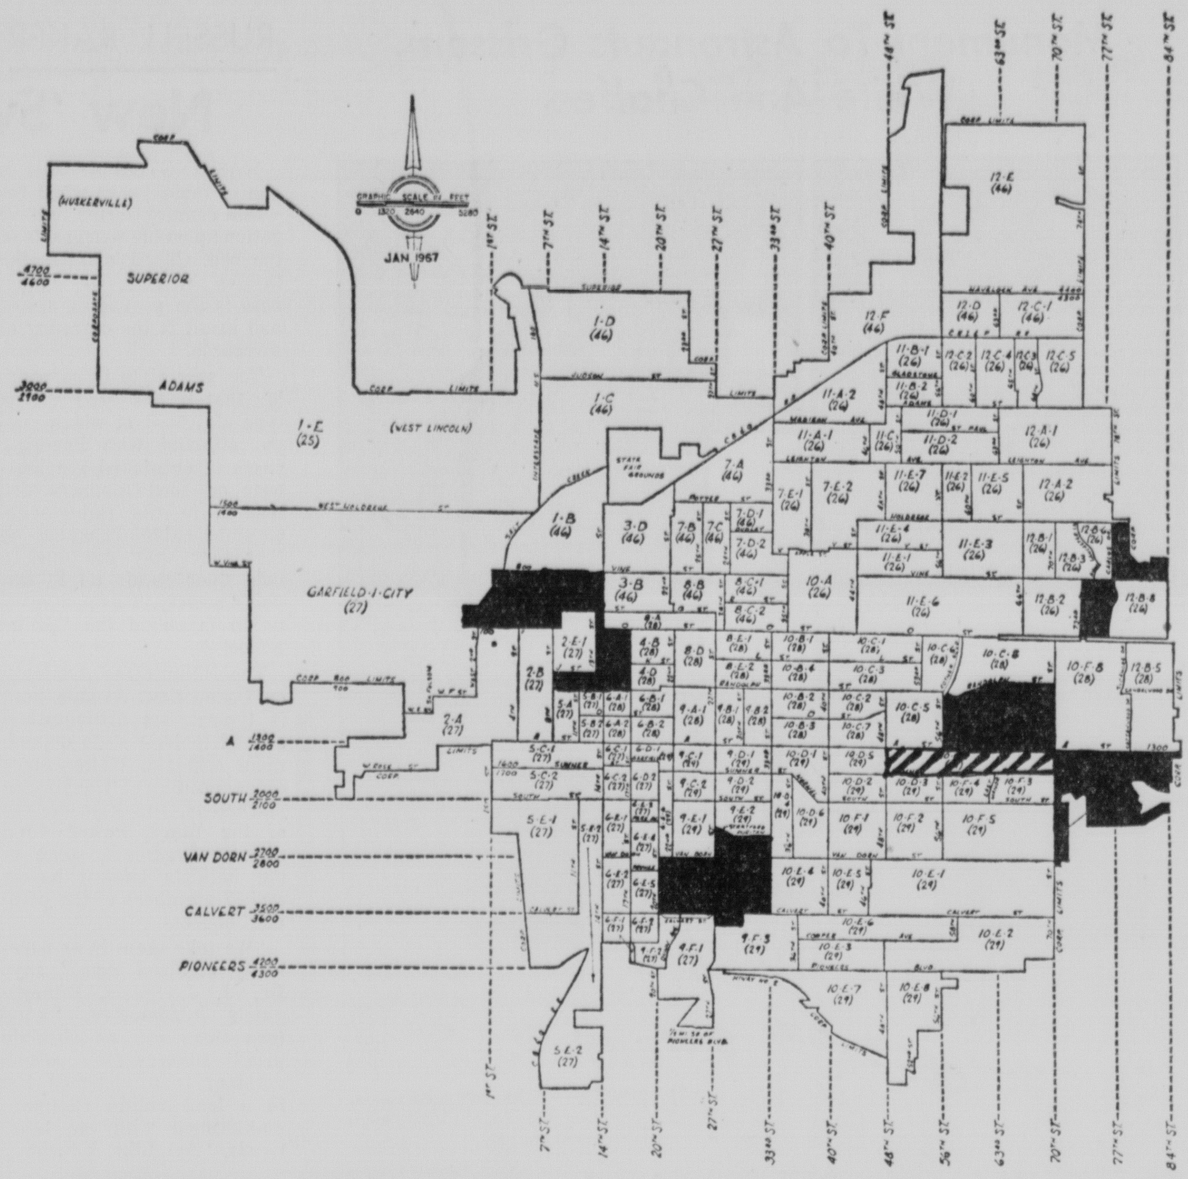
Seven men were lined up against a wall of the cartage company garage and shot to death in what was believed an attempt by the Al Capone gang to wipe out George "Bugs" Moran, a rival. Moran escaped assassination.

'No Plan To Put Marijuana Weed On Noxious List'

Grand Island (UPI) — Bill Jones, assistant director of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture, said Tuesday there are no plans at present to place the hemp weed, or so-called marijuana weed, on the noxious weed list.

Jones, here for the state weed control conference, said although it has gained widespread attention, the hemp weed in Nebraska is of rather "poor quality" for any type of black market or commercial value.

He also stated that if the hemp weed would be placed on the noxious weed list, it would be put there under the provision of being injurious to health for social reasons rather than having adverse effects on cropping conditions.



PRECINCTS . . . which favored the housing ordinance are indicated in black; housing issue tied in striped area, 10-C-9.

Only 11 Precincts Favor Housing Code Proposal

In only 11 of the city's 135 precincts did voters favor the minimum housing standards ordinance. In another, the issue drew a tie vote.

Little pattern could be discerned in the precinct totals.

City Hall precinct, bounded roughly by O and Vine and by Salt Creek and 14th Street, and whose residents are among Lincoln's poorest, voted for the ordinance, but only a handful of the precinct's residents cast ballots.

Also for the ordinance were the State Capitol precinct, bounded roughly by 13th, 17th, G and O, whose residents mostly (but with a few notable exceptions) live in older, modest apartment houses. Also in favor was nearby 2-E-2, bounded by 8th and 14th and G and J.

However by contrast, the precincts in favor of the ordinance included 9-E-4 in which the Lincoln Country Club is located, and 9-E-5 and 9-E-3, in the area from the Country Club east to 33rd and from Stratford and Puritan south to Calvert.

The south part of Eastridge went for the ordinance, but not the north. On the "for" side were precincts 10-C-4 and 10-F-7, which together occupy the area from 56th to 70th between Randolph and A. Precinct 10-F-6, which stretches south and east from 70th and A was on the "for" side.

The other two precincts voting for the ordinance were 12-B-4 in Eastborough from 73rd to Skyway between O and Vine and its neighbor, 12-B-7, east of Carlos and north of Vine.

The tied precinct was 10-C-9 which stretches from 48th to 70th between Sumner and A, a newer middle-and-higher class neighborhood.

Housing Code, Bonds Nixed

the smoke screens which have been put up by the opposition have been great enough to confuse many people, and when this happens, there is always a negative vote."

The $5 million bond issue would have financed improvement of the most critical drainage problems on the city's storm sewer priority list.

Its defeat, "is of course a blow to many of the older sections of our city where people have experienced flooding and property damage each year," Hinkley declared.

Best Approach

"The bond issue was the best approach to taking care of that problem — we will now have to approach the solution to our storm sewer problems each year at budget time."

Mayor Schwartzkopf said he was "sorry to see that go down, but it indicates to us at city hall what the people want."

Ballots were tabulated by the Election Commission staff by an early 9:30 p.m.

Election Commissioner Dean Petersen, former Lincoln mayor who was supervising his first election as commissioner, said he was "delighted with the turnout."

"We knew that there was considerable interest generated in the two issues." Petersen had predicted a turnout of 21,000 to 25,000 voters.

Theopholis X and Police patrolmen Tim G. Mead 24, were slightly wounded in the scuffle which broke out when police attempted to take Theopholis X to jail following a preliminary hearing on a previous incident.

EVENTS IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

It is a problem of great concern that shows itself before the Economy Housing Seminar being held at the University of Nebraska Center. Attending the seminar are builders, architects, housing specialists and others related to this field.

We are inclined to look at housing as a matter of mechanics, of the technical drawing of plans and the skilled execution of these plans through the hands of various craftsmen. This is one part of housing but it is the more human side of housing that concerns the seminar.

Concern was expressed over the fact that the cost of new homes is increasing and hitting an average level too far beyond the ability of many to pay. The average new house today, it was pointed out, costs $20,000, a figure that only one family in eight can afford.

James Montgomery, professor of housing at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, attacked slum housing as the cause of most housing problems and connected recent riots in the nation's ghettos to a "lack of pride in one's home."

We should never lose sight of the fact that our society is built upon the concept of strong family life and housing is certainly a key in this. You can have adequate housing but still lack the right family atmosphere but you cannot have the right family atmosphere without a certain minimum in housing.

Related to all this, of course, is the responsibility of the individual and this can be a big factor. There is housing that is far below the average new house cost of $20,000 in which a strong family atmosphere can be provided.

There is housing in all rundown areas that stands out like the proverbial sore thumb because it radiates the pride of its occupants. Because housing is small, because it is old or because it is poorly located does not mean it is automatically bad.

A lot of housing is bad simply because its occupants lack sufficient pride to make it good. Such people are content to live in whatever conditions seem to develop for them, with no thought of improving conditions through their own effort.

For a very small outlay, a home can be painted if you do it yourself. Hand tools are inexpensive and a lot of nails can be purchased for a few dollars. Lumber is expensive but it doesn't take much to do routine patchwork here and there.

It takes a seriously impoverished situation before an owner-occupant can justify complete disregard of his property. Even a renter can make sure that the place in which he lives is clean and that a minimum of maintenance is practiced.

Thus, there are family problems relating to housing that are personal as well. Some family problems go deeper than just the lack of adequate housing.

But we still need to recognize that the opportunity for decent housing is essential. Without this fundamental recognition, all the talk you want about individual responsibility is useless.

Economics is a prime consideration in this opportunity. The important thing is not just that the standard of living in the United States improves year by year in the area of housing, but rather, that all the American people have the chance to share in this improvement.

The same thing is true in housing that is true in health matters and other fundamentals of life and living. Throughout our social order we have two responsibilities — progress and its distribution.

A society has failed when it makes great progress but few of its people can share in it. It is well that we have a seminar such as that now being conducted on the campus in order to train our sights on the solution to this problem of distribution of our progress in housing.

Prisoner Release Intrigue

"Intrigue" is about the only thing that seems to describe the release by the Viet Cong of three U.S. prisoners of war. The three men, all sergeants, were reportedly released last week but no trace could be found of them. Then, they turned up making their way into the hands of U.S. officials through circuitous routes that took them through communist territory.

It was reported that the men would be reunited in the states with their families but this has been delayed. The men have been given no access to the press, whether they want it or not. The whole affair seems to be of a cloak-and-dagger nature.

In the middle of it all are representatives of so-called peace movements in several countries, including the U.S. The middle man in the exchange was, in fact, a U.S. citizen.

Eventually, we will probably learn whether the released men have been brainwashed by the communists. But what we find even more difficult to understand is the cooperation of our own and other free world citizens with the Viet Cong in pushing their wartime propaganda effort.

It is hard enough to understand those who ignore the fundamental principle of loyalty even though they take issue with certain policies but it is impossible to understand those who give direct aid to the enemy. You may disagree with what your nation does and you are free to express that disagreement but to actually go so far as to work with the enemy is certainly beyond the bounds of good citizenship, whether it is legal or not.

Handcuffed Police: Death Of A Myth

Ask almost anyone: The U.S. Supreme Court's ruling which requires suspects to be warned of their rights before questioning has handcuffed the police. An awful lot of people have accepted this idea despite the fact that all the court has done is impose FBI procedures on the local level.

But now some facts are in — and the handcuffs don't exist after all. In fact, the police may be better able to get confessions than before the ruling. The editors of the Yale Law Journal conducted an intensive, 11-week investigation into the effects of the ruling and have compiled a 120-page report. The results are surprising, and should end any further talk of handcuffs. For the law students found that far from eliminating the confession as a police tool, the ruling has possibly brought about more confessions. It turns out that the warning requirement doesn't reduce a suspect's amount of talking. He is just as likely to confess even after being warned. Further, the report said, police usually have enough evidence to get a conviction before an arrest is made, so a confession isn't necessary to get a conviction.

The report also noted that despite the Supreme Court, the police under study (in New Haven) warned only about one-fourth of the suspects and often phrased their warnings in something less than fair fashion. For example, "You don't have to say a word, but you ought to get everything cleared up."

And that makes one wonder whether the Supreme Court has gone far enough. It appears the court should ignore panic-stricken police and citizens and continue to take further steps to see that all suspects are treated fairly by police.

New 'Swine School' Courses

WASHINGTON — This is one of those years when the whole country seems to have gotten up on the wrong side of the bed. Churlishness is the fashion in behavior, meanness is the prevailing spirit, and insult is the currency of discourse.

The new style is so popular that it has bred a new type of school at which people afflicted with lingering cases of outmoded graciousness or good manners are trained in the refinements of unbearable behavior so that they may continue to hold their heads up in impolite society. This new institution is called the "Swine School."

The Billingsgate Academy on Connecticut Avenue here is typical. Its distinguished alumni include state department officials, White House aides, prominent Washington journalists, many leaderlets of the Black Power and peace movements, some of the nation's loudest hawks and 77 members of the present Congress.

"We take them in as hopelessly civilized men," says Dr. J. J. Spivis, Billingsgate's headmaster, "and turn them out as absolute pigs." Billingsgate's school emblem is a clenched fist in a loud mouth rampant, emblazoned with the Latin words, "Act Like A Swine."

☆ ☆ ☆

Few students at Billingsgate study the whole range of courses offered in the inhumanities. Most prefer to specialize. This is understandable when we consider the many diverse fields open to the student and the widely differing disciplines required to master each. Boorishness in the Black Power movement alone, to cite a case, is already so far advanced that the average beginner requires three years merely to make himself publicly intolerable. To become utterly offensive in the field requires another three years of graduate work.

Billingsgate's most popular course this year is called "Kick a Pauper." Here is the catalogue description:

"The student is taught to scream thirty arguments why poverty should be made a federal crime. Techniques of enjoying selfishness without guilt practiced in the laboratory. Professional actors perform poverty dramas on Thanksgiving and Christmas Eve to reinforce the student's urge to believe that the pauper's only problem is his own laziness. Legislative suggestions for disposing of illegitimate children by slow starvation."

This is an immensely popular course among congressmen this year. Members of the administration, on the other hand, sign up almost variably for "Vietnam 207." In this they are trained in 207 infallible techniques for ruining everybody else's evening by insisting upon a thorough discussion of Vietnam.

The techniques range from subtly suggesting that anyone who does not want to discuss Vietnam for three hours must hate President Johnson, to smelling out latent doves, then making table-pounding demands that they produce a Vietnam solution.

"Vietnam 123" appeals to a different sort. This offers a thorough grounding in 123 vicious epithets, ranging from "Texan" up to "murderer," which can be applied to President Johnson whenever a sane discussion of Vietnam threatens to break out in a social situation.

As Spivis explains it, "To maintain an advanced degree of swinishness in America, we must promote an atmosphere which persuades us that sane solutions are impossible. If sanity should ever return to social vogue in this country, beastliness would be set back a generation."

Students with no clear commitment to a specialized field of boorishness commonly take the nine-month generalized course called "Crudity." This concentrates on the basics of barbaric behavior in group situations. The student is trained to recognize a civilized social situation and make a fool of the person or persons engaged in it.

If he is hip and encounters one of the unhip who is curious about the hip life, training in "Crudity" will prepare him to respond with gibberish, thus letting the unhip questioner realize that his naivete is beneath contempt.

Spivis is naturally pleased about the meanness boom, but he foresees a day in the not distant future when everyone will behave so swinishly that the style will go out of fashion. "The joy of carrying on like a wild man in public," he explains, "derives from the satisfaction of forcing some contented man to realize that you are so angry about something that you are willing to scuttle civilization. When everyone gets angry, the thing loses its point. If swinishness is to survive as an American institution, we are going to have to preserve at least one last un-angry man."

Guns And Crime

Lincoln, Neb.

The Star's editorial of November 8 on the National Rifle Association, the Camp Perry match cancellation, and gun and crime control was a melange of misinformation and muddled thinking.

The National Matches are a function of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice, a branch of the Army. This board was established by act of Congress and directed by the Congress to hold the annual National Matches. The considerable support given the National Rifle Matches by the NRA is a subsidy to the federal government by the NRA — not the opposite! In the wartime crises of World War II and Korea, the matches were cancelled due to lack of trained manpower temporarily diverted to the immediate tasks of combat and ordinance support. That is the basic reason today for the 1968 cancellation.

To couple cancellation of the National Matches with the controversy on gun controls is to compare sheep to goats. The National Matches have helped to provide a trained cadre of expert riflemen and rifle instructors which have served this nation well in four wars. The sniper corps in Vietnam using techniques developed and polished at Camp Perry is an effective combat tool of which this nation may well be proud. Civilian shooters, trained at the compulsory small arms firing schools at Perry, have given valuable low-cost pre-induction rifle training to hundreds of thousands of service-bound youth, without charging Uncle Sam one cent for their time or effort. The value of this training has been proven by the objective 1965 investigations made by the authoritative Arthur D. Little management consultant company. If anyone is receiving a net subsidy from these programs, it is the nation, not the NRA or its members.

If gun controls equal crime controls, then little crime should occur in countries or jurisdictions with strict gun controls. Even England, with some of the strictest gun controls, has an increasing armed crime rate. In the U.S., objective studies show that there is no relationship between firearms control or the lack thereof and per capita crime rates. The statement that gun controls equal firearms controls just won't wash. Regardless of its position on gun controls, The Star has done a disservice to its readers to mix gun controls, the Camp Perry matches and the NRA in one editorial position.

Why doesn't The Star abandon the canned pre-digested policy position of the Washington-based editorial advisory services and look into this whole matter for itself? Its position just might change.

Defrauders

Friend, Neb.

We farmers and others also should be on the lookout for "lightning-rod crooks" who are, it appears, especially active in the countryside seeking whomever they can swindle.

Lately one of these men — if they can be called "men" — skunked me out of almost a hundred dollars and he must have told some of this friends about it, for there have been several here since trying to gyp me out of big money with some very crooked schemes.

I want to warn any others of this species that if they come here with schemes to defraud me, I will not waste time with them but will tell them to get lost.

Always Bank Where You Are Well Known

WASHINGTON — At a business luncheon here the other day a Washington banker told a true story which might give you some idea of our crime situation.

The banker told how one of his branches was stuck up for some $6,000 by a lone gunman. The bandit was caught about a block away, charged and — as it happens here — released on bail. About two weeks later the lady teller who'd been held up saw the suspect standing in line at her window. She hit the buzzer, the guards came over and grabbed the guy.

When asked if he'd planned on hitting the bank again, he said, "No, indeed. But when I was arrested for robbing the bank, I was fired from my job. The company gave me a severance check and I have to cash it. And I've always heard, 'Bank where you're known.'"

New Israeli Ambassador To Washington; Election Victories To Humphrey's Credit

WASHINGTON — Israel will take a highly significant step in its relations with the United States by appointing General Isaac Rabin, now chief of staff, as ambassador to Washington. He will replace the present popular envoy, Ambassador Avraham Harman.

Behind this move is partly the fact that Ambassador Harman has been in Washington for eight years and is due for a change; also the fact that General Rabin is both a glamor figure in Israel and somewhat at odds with the present minister of defense, Gen. Moshe Dayan. His transfer to Washington would be a plus for Israel with the American public, also would solve some internal problems in Tel Aviv.

Gen. Rabin is the brilliant strategist who plotted and planned for the defense of Israel in case of an Arab showdown — a showdown which occurred last June. When this column interviewed Rabin in Israel nearly two years ago, he outlined exactly the problems which his nation did face in June.

Gen. Rabin explained that Israel had to depend upon alertness, a highly trained reserve, and its friends abroad to keep armament balanced with the heavily equipped Arab forces. He particularly outlined the danger of fast jet bombers flying from Cairo to Tel Aviv in only nine minutes and from Jordan in four minutes. It was easy to see from his strategy that Israel would have to take the initiative.

Though Rabin had planned this strategy, it was Gen. Moshe Dayan who was transferred over his head to be minister of defense and got the credit. Dayan is a politician, and his appointment lined up the aggressive political forces of former Prime Minister Ben-Gurion behind Premier Eshkol.

Since then Dayan has frequently been at odds with Eshkol. At one time it was quite evident that the Israeli army was battering Syria two days after the civilian heads of government had assured the United Nations that fighting had stopped.

Gen. Rabin, as ambassador in Washington, can do an important job for Israel in securing badly needed weapons; and his transfer will also ease some tensions in Tel Aviv.

Last week's victories for Democrats and moderates in the nation's bigger cities can be chalked up as a personal victory for Vice President Humphrey.

Two years ago, when Humphrey appeared at political gatherings with Abraham Beame, Democratic candidate against Rep. John Lindsay for mayor of New York, the vice president was razzed for supporting the wrong man at the wrong time and losing.

This fall, however, he stuck his neck out even more — and won.

He trudged the slums of Philadelphia with Mayor James Tate, urging racial tolerance. Last week Mayor Tate surprised all the pollsters by defeating a hard-hitting yonng Republican (once a Democrat), Arlen Specter.

In Gary, Ind., Humphrey stuck his neck out even further by holding a fund-rising drive for Negro Democrat Gordon Hatcher, bitterly opposed by John Krupa, chairman of the Democratic local committee. Hatcher won.

In Cleveland, Humphrey campaigned for Carl Stokes, the Negro Democrat opposed by Seth Taft, Republican. Stokes won.

Humphrey also went all the way out to San Francisco to throw his support behind Joseph Alioto, the Democratic candidate for mayor, even though one of Humphrey's friends in the House of Representatives, Phillip Burton, had put a third candidate in the race to split the Democratic vote. Alioto won.

In making these campaigns, Humphrey obviously acted with the approval of his chief in the White House. Johnson also went on record in support of Negro and moderate candidates.

OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed

"No offense about your writing, Doc, but from now on, would you mind letting your wife write the notes?"

POSTCARD by Stan Kaplan

Home from the inscrutable Orient. Fall weather now, bright and brisk. Things are not so scrutable around here either.

"If we put in the new rugs," she said biting her lip, "we'll have to change the drapes. They don't pick up the color."

"Ah, so?" I said. A phrase I picked up for protective color in Japan.

☆ ☆ ☆

Let a man be out of the nest for a few days, the household wren begins to redecorate.

It appears we are going to pull up the old reliable wall-to-wall.

We are going to put "colorful scatter rugs" in the scatter.

This is no easy bag, dear boy.

The new rugs must match the drapes — "pick up the color" is the way we say it.

The drapes must then "pick up the colors" in the chairs.

But, what ho! The color in the chairs has faded slightly. The chairs must go to the upholsterers for new covering.

"Ah, so?" I said. (I wonder how the Japanese handle it when mama-san says, "We must put in all new shoji screens.")

☆ ☆ ☆

Ah, well. So what? I have an ancient Chinese remedy for the common hangover.

"Place a ruby under the tongue," says the prescription.

No mention of size of ruby. I imagine the bigger the hangover, the bigger the ruby you need.

I suppose you take aspirin. That is why the Far East will never understand you.

☆ ☆ ☆

While deep-dishing myself in a Japanese bath the other day, I ran across the sad story of Toby.

Toby was the English bulldog belonging to the first British Minister to Japan.

While strolling through the hot springs of seaside Atami, a sudden burst of hot water scalded him to death.

He is buried under a stone near the main street. It reads: "Poor Toby."

The Japanese gave him a funeral with full Buddhist rites—(though it seems likely he was Church of England.)

The point is the Japanese love this resort. They soak happily in the same water that did in poor Toby. It's a matter of getting used to it, I guess.

☆ ☆ ☆

There was a student dust-up in Japan the other day. Protests against war and such. For in these matters, world youth is alike.

Police are not alike all over the world.

I noticed that the Japanese cops did not lift them tenderly into patrol wagons. They took their clubs and beat the bejabbers out of them.

The students did not cry, "Police brutality." For the simple reason that they expect a policeman to be brutal. If he were not brutal, he would be a poor cop is the Japanese way of looking at it.

And looking at it that way, it is not so inscrutable after all.

☆ ☆ ☆

She said: "After we get the chairs recovered, and after we get in the new drapes, we might have the floors sanded and done over."

I said: "Ah, so? What happened to the new rugs?"

Well, sir, only a fool would ask a question like that.

When you have all that color in drapes and new chair coverings, you don't want to spoil it by putting rugs on the floor.

You just have a plain, polished, glistening hardwood floor! Let the color run around it. (Ah, so? "Well, just so-so," he said. "I've been feeling poorly lately.")

☆ ☆ ☆

Anyway, that's settled. Except—"We'll have to take up the rug in the hall, too."

Why? Well, that would be an amusing question, if it were not so irritating.

You take up the rug in the hall because it is a continuation of the living room. And in the living room you have taken up the rug.

And so on and on. All through the house, all through the night.

Judge Denies Injunction Request To Stop Kaneb Stock Purchases

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

U.S. District Judge Robert Van Pelt Tuesday denied a request for a temporary injunction to stop Kaneb Pipe Line Co. from acquiring additional shares of stock in the Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co.

He also ordered the case transferred to the federal court in Kansas City, Kan., where an anti-trust lawsuit involving both firms is under litigation.

Both actions are based on Kansas-Nebraska's complaint that Kaneb, a liquid petroleum distributor, is trying to force a merger by purchasing additional shares from Kansas-Nebraska stockholders and by soliciting proxies.

Kaneb is already a 20% stockholder in Kansas-Nebraska.

'Debt-Ridden'

It is further alleged that Kaneb is debt-ridden because it borrowed upwards of $14 million to purchase the stock and that the firm will impose the debt on the surviving company if the merger attempt is successful.

Although Judge Van Pelt denied Kansas-Nebraska's request for temporary relief, "because I do not see where Kansas-Nebraska has shown irreparable damage", he note a "thread of unfairness that has run through Kaneb in this entire dealing."

"Counsel (Kansas - Nebraska's attorney) has used the term 'sophisticated fraud' and I think it applies," the judge said.

Want To Weigh

"They have shown a conduct of intent that the present stockholders will want to weigh carefully when they consider if they want to become associated with the type of officers Kaneb may have," he commented.

Van Pelt declared that "relief denied plaintiff is not to be construed as a stamp of approval of the activities of Kaneb and its officers."

He further denied Kansas-Nebraska's request to order Kaneb to divest itself of present stock ownership and said he would not prevent the solicitation of proxies becase Kansas-Nebraska shareholders can settle that issue at their annual meeting in March.

Now Pending

He said he will leave it to the Phillips County, Kan., district court, where an action is now pending, to determine whether Kansas-Nebraska should divulge its stockholders list to Kaneb.

Van Pelt ruled that the lawsuit should be transferred to the federal court in Kansas because Kansas-Nebraska "chose that form for original action in the anti-trust case" and "It will be timesaving to whatever court tries the matter to try both causes".

"There is going to be a proxy fight and a fight for control in this corporation and in light of that, it is better to have all cases in one court," he said.

Can Intervene

Van Pelt authorized seven present or former stockholders of Kansas-Nebraska to intervene in the case and gave them until next Monday to file petitions of intervention, after which time the entire file will be transferred to the Kansas City court.

The intervenors include persons from Nebraska, California, Iowa, Arizona and Minnesota.

Kansas-Nebraska has asked for a permanent injunction along the same lines as its request for temporary relief. That issue will be met when the lawsuit comes to trial in Kansas.

The lawsuit was initiated by Kansas-Nebraska, a Kansas corporation with operating headquarters in Hastings, against Kaneb, with offices in Wichita, Kan., and Houston, Tex., and Kaneb's controlling corporation, Pipe Line Technologists, Inc., headquartered in Houston.

Sunday Liquor At Bellevue Blocked

Bellevue (AP) — The Bellevue City Council has blocked the sale of liquor on Sunday. Tavern owners had asked for a Sunday liquor ordinance but strong objections were voiced by ministers.

Elkhorn and La Vista have adopted Sunday liquor sale ordinances and similar ones are pending before councils in Omaha, Millard, Papillion, Ralston and Valley, all in the Omaha metropolitan area.

CANADIAN WHISKY — A BLEND · 80 PROOF · IMPORTED BY NATIONAL DISTILLERS PRODUCTS CO., NEW YORK

Elegant tradition:
The smoothest whisky ever to come out of Canada!

Tonight serve Windsor Canadian: the remarkable, sippin'-smooth Canadian that's already changing thousands of Americans' ideas on the whisky to serve.

Now compare Windsor! Pour two drinks—highballs or over ice—one with your usual, one with Windsor Canadian. Notice the superior smoothness and the flavor of Windsor.

That's because no other custom-distilled whisky shares these three extraordinary features:

1. Only Windsor Canadian is made from choicest northern prairie grains, bursting with fresh flavor.

2. Only Windsor Canadian is born of icy mountain glacial water drawn pure and clear from underground streams.

3. Only Windsor Canadian is aged in the incredibly dry air of Canada's Rockies. Where, nearly a mile high, it gentles to sippin'-smooth perfection.

Yet it costs no more than leading domestic whiskies, because we import Windsor Canadian, then bottle it here. Thus saving on duties and other charges. Compare the price and the smoothness of Windsor. Once you do, you'll never settle for less or pay more. That's tradition for you!

Farm Bureau Opposes Sales Tax Hike

The Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation Tuesday adopted resolutions opposing a 3% sales tax and credit-financing of highway construction.

Delegates to the group's annual convention here also voiced opposition to statewide initiative petition efforts aimed at repeal of the present Nebraska tax system.

Last year the Farm Bureau spearheaded the successful drive to banish the century-old state property tax. It said this action was a significant step toward creation of a more equitable tax system.

However, the bureau added, abolishment of the present sales tax or income tax would create a state revenue "catastrophe."

The 15,600-family member organization declared its support for a flexible, low-rate income tax and a decrease in the sales tax from 2½ to 2% in 1969 as prescribed by present law.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann has said he may ask the Legislature to hike the sales tax to 3% in 1969 instead of allowing the levy to drop. He said the money could be needed to finance the new state aid to schools and government rebate programs.

The Farm Bureau also split with the governor on highway financing by adopting a resolution critical of the proposed constitutional amendment to permit bonded indebtedness for roadway improvements.

"The creation of public debts in inflationary times to be paid off by cheap dollars is not conducive to good government," said the Farm Bureau.

"If additional highway funds are necessary, we believe it would be better to increase all motor fuel taxes than to proceed with bonded indebtedness."

Study Rapped

The Farm Bureau also came out against the state highway study report recommendations calling for a change in the highway user fee distribution and elimination of the Schroeder mail route program.

The highway study proposed allocating more state gasoline tax and other user revenues back to the cities and less to the counties. It suggested the Schroeder mail route money be spent for primary road construction instead of gravel road improvements.

The Farm Bureau said it opposed the amendment to permit the Legislature to exempt from taxation a portion of those homes which Nebraskans live in and own.

The Farm Bureau said it supports the proposed constitutional amendments to lower the voting age from 21 to 19; to exempt personal property from taxation; to increase from $200 to $400 per month the pay for state legislators, and to permit consolidation of county offices where feasible.

The sale of state school lands was backed in still another resolution adopted by a voice vote of delegates.

Furthermore, the Farm Bureau said, school lands put up for rent should be leased at a price comparable to that received for privately-owned land.

Policies Rapped

An outspoken official of the American Farm Bureau Federation struck hard at administration farm policies in an address to Farm Bureau members Tuesday evening.

Roger Fleming, secretary-treasurer and Washington office director for the American Farm Bureau Federation, said, "Farm Bureau members are dedicated to a market-directed economy rather than dependence upon payments, permits and politics."

Fleming said government management of an industry is invariably looking backward because controls are always related to history.

Inefficiency

"Industry production dependent upon production history guarantees inefficiency and we know that any time food is produced less efficiently than it can be, the cost to consumers will be more than it needs to be," said Fleming.

Felming praised the House Agriculture Feed Grains Committee for killing the strategic grain reserves bill which he said should have been entitled "The Farm Price Control Act of 1967."

LAWMEN TAB STEINKAMP PRESIDENT

Sheriff Interrupts Tiemann's Talk, Says Courts 'Turn Crooks Loose'

North Platte (AP) — Gov. Norbert Tiemann got a first-hand report on what some law enforcement officers think about disposition of crime cases in court.

Tiemann spoke at the convention of the Nebraska Sheriffs and Peace Officers Association. His talk to the 250 delegates and wives was devoted to an explanation of the Governor's Crime Commission and the work it is expected to accomplish.

He was interrupted from the floor by Sheriff Steve Warrick of Scotts Bluff County.

"Talk to the courts; we pick them up and then the courts turn them loose," Warrick said. "We do our job, let them do theirs."

Warrick said "we've had a belly full."

Recodification Job

Tiemann, during his speech and in comments to newsmen afterward, indicated the primary duty of the Crime Commission he appointed recently would not be to investigate the courts. He said one of its first jobs would be to work for a recodification of laws, and this "is a job that is definitely needed."

He said the Crime Commission may eventually lead to the establishment of law enforcement training centers, and the job of the commission is to study crime control, not crime prevention

Newsmen asked the governor if he felt Sheriff Warrick's comments were indicative of a growing unrest among law enforcement officers.

The governor said that private conversations he has had with other law officers indicated this general feeling, and Tiemann added "I don't blame them for being frustrated."

Tiemann announced his latest appointment to the Crime Commission, that of Omaha Police Chief Richard Anderson.

Students, Clergy To Take Part In Religious Meets

Kearney (AP)—Two religious meetings will be held on the Kearney State College campus Friday and Saturday — one for students and another quite different meeting for clergymen

The clergy, without reference to denomination, will hear lectures by the Kearney State College Speech Department faculty on verbal communications, and through the medium of video tape, will see themselves as they appear to their congregations.

The second conference will be a statewide conference of four student religious groups including seven denominations on the question of "Christian Morality and the Problem of War."

Homes Without Foundations Seen For Future

. . . SWEEPING CONSTRUCTION COST CUTS PROPOSED

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Homes of the future may be built upon wooden foundations or no foundations at all, according to housing experts attending the three-day Economy Housing Seminar at the Nebraska Center in Lincoln.

These and other ideas came as several construction research specialists told researchers and contractors from across the United States and Canada Tuesday about revolutionary new methods of building construction designed to drastically cut costs in new house building.

John Hagely, research architect with Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus, Ohio, spoke of a project at the Rosebud Reservation in South Dakota that he called the possible "forerunner of nation-wide low-cost housing."

'Attacks Problems'

Hagely referred to an experimental program funded by federal agencies and administered by the Battelle Institute that "attacks problems of low income families (on the Rosebud Reservation) by developing housing, job training, employment and community action and opportunities."

Using housing as a "vehicle to achieve other factors," Hagely said the project involves the building of modern two-bedroom homes with the help of family labor.

He said the homes, set on a foundation of "pre-fab" plywood box beams and ready-made wall panels, may be constructed efficiently in three days at a cost of about $3,500.

$10 Down Payment

Hagely said the project allows Indian families to buy their homes with a $10 downpayment and $5 monthly payments. The money, he noted, goes back into the community for use in local projects as community leaders see fit.

Another new technique, explained by Robert H. McAlister of the University of Georgia, involves the building of homes through "pole framing" construction. Such buildings have no foundations at all.

McAlister said poles may be used in low-cost housing construction as supports for wall and roofs, eliminating costly grading or site disturbance.

$3,600 Per Unit

In a South Carolina lumber community, hurricane resistant three-bedroom houses were built in ten days at a cost of about $3,600 per unit.

McAlister noted the construction requires a minimum of skilled labor and offers "an economical solution to building on sites too steep for conventional practice or too remote for the economical use of special equipment."

In an interview with The Satr, Dr. Ann S. Bardwell, an extension specialist in management and family development at Ohio State University, called housing for low-income and young families "the prime concern" of the seminar.

'Tremendous Needs'

Mrs. Bardwell said attending specialists are looking at the "tremendous needs for housing for an increasing population" and called for education of contractors, laborers and consumers to inform them of the need for low-cost urban and rural housing.

She attacked the lack of reasonably priced renting units and urged "imaginative and creative young families" to buy and develop older homes.

The housing specialists were in general agreement of the need for changing housing standards to allow the construction of new homes with new building ideas.

FUND RAISERS HOLD FEED-IN

The first Rural United Fund solicitation in the history of Lancaster County got underway Tuesday evening with a pancake "feed-in" for drive workers. A plate of cakes draws the approval of drive leader Richard Lefferdink of Hickman, above. The drive will be completed by Nov. 30th. (Star Photo.)

Local Firm To Seek IDA Bonds

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday were informed that a formal request will be made by Instrumentation Specialties, Inc. for issuance of $485,000 worth of Industrial Development Act bonds for construction of a new plant along Superior between 44th and 48th.

Lincoln attorney Allen Graves, who appeared at the board meeting Tuesday, said the firm, which manufactures precision electronic instruments, will request that a special meeting be called Nov. 28 to consider the matter.

The Lincoln based company, which is presently located at 56th and Seward, has within the last month purchased two lots at a total price of $80,000 for the proposed plant.

He said the company, which now employs about 80 persons, intends to increase its employes to about 110 with the new building.

In other action Tuesday, the board approved subject to approval by the county attorney, a request of Club El Ranchero of Emerald to serve alcoholic beverages on Sunday.

The resolution allows the club to serve beer from noon to midnight and liquor from 6 p.m. to midnight and to remain closed Tuesdays.

The board also informally approved a proposed amendment to county zoning regulations to exclude junk yards or salvage yards from business areas.

A resolution will be submitted next week for formal approval.

Local Policeman Cleared In Plane Incident

Scottsbluff (AP)—Scotts Bluff County Attorney Jim Ponder said Tuesday no charges would be filed in connection with an incident which delayed a Frontier Airlines plane here for an hour Monday night.

Deputy Sheriff Jim Robertson said a Lincoln detective, Orley Darold Barker, had boarded the plane at North Platte and was enroute to Alliance to testify at a trial Tuesday.

Barker reportedly told Stewardess Luella Kohler of Aurora, Colo., his heavy bag contained a bomb and a machine gun, Robertson said. She notified Pilot J. K. Schleiger of Denver, who stopped the plane at Scottsbluff.

Robertson said Barker was allowed to continue on to Alliance Tuesday. Barker had been attending the Nebraska Sheriffs and Peace Officers Association convention in North Platte.

Lincoln Police Chief Joe Carroll Tuesday labeled the incident an "apparent misunderstanding" between Det. Barker and airline authorities.

Carroll said the only information he had on the incident he received from Barker via telephone Tuesday morning and therefore would not be aware of all the facts until Barker returns.

He said he has no knowledge of any bomb and assumed the only gun Barker would have been carrying would be a "handgun." Carroll stated Barker apparently failed to identify himself as police officer during the conversation with the airline stewardess.

Veteran Socialist Fair After Stroke

New York (AP) — Norman Thomas, six-time candidate for president on the Socialist ticket, has been hospitalized with what hospital authorities described as a slight stroke.

Thomas, who will be 83 Monday, was reported in fair condition at Huntington Hospital, Huntington, N.Y.

The veteran socialist was stricken Saturday after his return from Chicago, where he addressed an Assembly for Peace gathering.

Lincoln Girl 'Fair' After Auto Crash

A Lincoln girl, 15, was reported in "fair" condition at a local hospital after suffering injuries in a one-car accident Monday afternoon, according to authorities.

Police said Janet K. Marshall, of 3026 Prairie Road was injured when the car she was driving jumped the curb and struck a tree near 20th and A.

Another passenger in the vehicle, Charles Watts, 15, of 3030 Summit Blvd., was treated and released at the hospital, police said.

School Board Splits On Leave Policies

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Board of Education members split 3-3 on recommendations to liberalize the death and personal leave policies for teachers here Tuesday.

Since the motion failed for lack of four affirmative votes, Board President Ed Copple directed that the request be brought up for consideration again in December after the new superintendent is consulted and an analysis of possible cost to the district is made.

Board members Robert Magee, Don Biehn and Dr. John Lux voted for the Lincoln Education Association request, recommended by Supt. Steven Watkins, that death leave be extended to a full day for relatives other than those in the immediate family and friends without loss of pay.

3 Days

Staff members are excused for three days for deaths in the immediate family.

The proposal also included provision of two days of personal leave each year for transacting personal business that cannot be handled on non-duty days, religious holidays, and examinations in connection with university programs.

Copple, Robert Wekesser and Mrs. Catherine Angle voted against the proposals.

Sex Education

In other action Tuesday board members informally authorized Asst. Supt. Dr. R. L. Fredstrom to proceed with plans for a unit of sex education in eighth grade health classes.

The curriculum for the sex education unit, developed last summer, has been "used satisfactorily" at Lincoln East and Dawes Junior High Schools, Fredstrom reported.

All parents of children involved in the health classes will be informed beforehand of the impending study with the suggestion to "follow-up discussions with instruction in the home," he said. Requests for children to be excused from the unit of study will be honored, it was advised.

Multi-Media Center

Members approved an application for $34,323 in Title II Elementary and Secondary Education Act funds administered by the State Department of Education for a "model multi-media center" at Park School.

Additional local funds needed for the project are $10,536 for equipment, furniture and remodeling of rooms for the proposed library. Funds are available by reallocating already budgeted library monies, board members were told.

The federal funds would be used to acquire books and instructional materials for the model center.

The board also:

—Approved payment of $30,000 to Davis and Wilson, architects for Lincoln East High School.

—Authorized sale of used, obsolete or discarded school district property without prior board of education approval.

—Accepted bids totaling $18,052 for 2,531 electric lamps.

Joint Study Of Retarded Okayed

The Lincoln Board of Education agreed Tuesday to cooperate with Education Service Unit No. 6 in a feasibility study on jointly providing a residential-day school for trainable retarded children.

Board member Mrs. Catherine Angle and Julius Humann, director of pupil personnel services, were appointed to work with the unit board of directors in studying establishment of a school administered by the unit but available to residents of Lincoln on a contractural basis.

The move will not result in any slowing-down of the Lincoln experimental program for trainable retarded children started this year as required by state law, Richard Longacre, former president of the Lancaster Association for Retarded Children, was assured by school officials.

Day School Training

Board members agreed to the study after a presentation by Dr. Charles Falls, director of special education for the unit. He outlined mechanics of a possible program providing both residential and day school training.

Possible cost to Lincoln would be a per pupil reimbursement to the service unit for children from the district less the contributions made by the county and state, according to a proposed method of financing.

However, Falls emphasized, details of operation would be determined by the feasibility study.

Education Programs

The school board heard a report by Humann on the district's 12 special education programs, including speech therapy, homebound, educational mentally handicapped, trainable mentally retarded, orthopedically handicapped, acoustically handicapped, visually handicapped, psychological testing, rapid learner, emotionally handicapped, special employment, and special vocational needs.

Total cost for the programs last year amounted to $751,335, an excess cost of $451,469 to the district over regular instructional expenses.

Although some $267,495 was approved for state reimbursement, the Lincoln district received only $247,176, Humann reported.

Highest Percentage

However, he added, the 1966-67 reimbursement amounted to 92.4% of the approved reimbursement which is the highest percentage of funds ever prorated by the state.

Informed that the Easter Seal Society has indicated it cannot furnish a replacement again this year for the station wagon used to transport orthopedically handicapped children, board members directed the business affairs department to obtain bids on a new vehicle for consideration at the next meeting.

Local Public Schools Could Get $2.8 Million In State Aid

State aid to the Lincoln Public Schools could amount to an estimated $2.8 million for the 1967-68 school year, according to computations made by Asst. Supt. Dr. Robert Den Hartog.

Based on the 1967 valuation, the approximate aid would be equal to a 11.35 mill levy reduction in the 1968-69 school budget, Den Hartog told the Board of Education here Tuesday.

The assistant superintendent predicted the school district's first year of state aid, $2,811,498, on the basis of the Legislature's $25 million appropriation for LB448, the state aid bill.

If Fully Funded

If the bill had been fully funded, Lincoln might have received some $8,276,247 in state aid, equal to 33.43 mills on the 1967 valuation, he reported. Approximately a $70 million state appropriation would be needed to fully fund the bill for the 1967-68 school year, board members were told.

Application for the 1967-68 state aid will be based on enrollment, program and cost estimates for the 1967-68 school year.

When the school district makes up its 1968-69 budget, approximate state aid will be included among the estimated receipts. The first state support will be distributed in December, 1968, Den Hartog said.

Tax Change

Taxpayers will see the effect of state aid to schools on their taxes when real estate levies are set in August, 1968, for calendar year 1968 taxes which will be collected in 1969.

However, Den Hartog predicted that the school budget will increase next year by some $1.5 million, due to the loss of taxes on intangibles which was formerly estimated at $500,000 per year, salary raises already adopted and rising costs of equipment and supplies.

Increased costs, he pointed out, would be absorbed in the state aid but would have the effect of lowering the estimated 11.35 mill levy reduction to about 5 mills.

Annexation Of Village Was Legal–Lincoln

By United Press International

The city of Lincoln said Tuesday it fully complied with state annexation laws two years ago when it took over the village of West Lincoln.

The assertion was made in a written brief to the State Supreme Court in the lawsuit challenging the annexation action.

City Atty. Ralph D. Nelson pointed to a 1965 legislative act specifically authorizing Lincoln to annex the village without a vote of villagers.

Cecil O. Campbell, a former village official and plaintiff in the suit, contends the act is special legislation and therefore invalid.

Lancaster County District Judge William C. Hastings rejected Campbell's arguments in September, 1966. An appeal was quickly carried to the high tribunal.

Nelson, in his brief, said the annexation law is "reasonable and constitutional." He noted that the city has long supplied the village with utility services and it was natral that the two should join.

"It is the obvious intent of the Legislature to avoid fragmentations of local governments," the city attorney said.

"It may be natural for a doughnut to have a hole, but the same cannot be said for local government."

Zinnecker Ed Boards' New Head

Harold L. Zinnecker of David City assumed the presidency of the Nebraska State School Boards Association Tuesday at a board of directors meeting winding up a two-day annual convention here.

Zinnecker succeeded Norris W. Coats of Staurt.

Mrs. Virginia Vieregg of Grand Island became first vice president.

Robert Magee of Lincoln, newly elected second vice president, will assume the presidency of the statewide organization in 1969.

The board named Zinnecker and Mrs. Vieregg Nebraska delegates to the National School Boards Association convention next year.

In action Tuesday the board of directors resolved to become actively involved in forthcoming elections of the State Board of Education.

Qualified persons will be encouraged to run for the board positions and the NSSBA will actively support them, announced Executive Secretary Richard Brown of Holdrege.

The state board has shown a tendency to "usurp administrative functions" and was "at odds with every educational organization in the state except the NSIA (Nebraska School Improvement Association) on the state aid to schools legislation," Brown declared.

Omaha Firm Bids Low On Patrol Cars

Gateway Chrysler-Plymouth of Omaha Tuesday was awarded the contract to supply the State Safety Patrol with 170 new cars.

Gateway submitted a bid of $2098 per unit for the two door sedan and $2129 for the four-door model. The new cars will have power steering, air conditioning, automatic transmission and power disc brakes.

State Purchasing Agent Harley Davidson said Chrysler-Plymouth will provide a test car of the same specifications for a 30-day test period before the contract becomes final.

Other contracts awarded listing company, model car and price per unit are:

—Misle Chevrolet of Lincoln, four-door air conditioned sedan, $2075.

—Du Teau Chevrolet of Lincoln, two-door sedan without air conditioning, $1785; four-door sedan without air conditioning, $1819; and six passenger station wagon with air conditioning, $2381.

—Charles Gabus Ford of Holdrege, nine passenger station wagon with air conditioning, $2457.

—Gateway Chrysler-Plymouth, six passenger station wagon without air conditioning, $2111; and nine passenger station wagon also without air condtioning, $2185.

Davidson said 32 firms were invited to bid for the contracts involving 320 cars but only nine were within competitive range.

Bids on 15 new state trucks are still being accepted. Davidson said he expects to be able to award contracts within two weeks.

Lincoln Woman Graphoanalysis Group's Head

Marjorie Barstow of Lincoln has been elected president of the Nebraska chapter of the International Graphoanalysis Society for 1968.

Also elected were Sister M. Paphnutiana of Lincoln, vice president; Elizabeth Reiss of Omaha, program chairman; Emma Turek of Columbus, treasurer; Dorothea Tilman of Lincoln, secretary and A. W. Edling of Lincoln, corresponding secretary.

The group's Christmas party will be held Dec. 9 in Omaha.

PIN-WORMS
A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . small, easy-to-take tablets . . . special sizes for children and adults.

Hanoi Rejects Offered Talks 'On Neutral Ship'

Tokyo (UPI) — The Hanoi regime Tuesday rejected President Johnson's offer to meet North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh "on a neutral ship on a neutral sea" to talk peace.

It said that only the unconditional end of bombing attacks on the North and withdrawal of the United States from South Vietnam could end the war.

The rejection of the Johnson offer was made in a commentary published in the official North Vietnamese newspaper Nhan Dan and broadcast by Radio Hanoi.

The newspaper called the Johnson statement "vague" and attacked the President's recent visits to U.S. military bases as signs of increased escalation of the war.

Johnson climaxed a Veterans Day tour of military installations Saturday by issuing his latest peace appeal to Ho in an address aboard the carrier U.S.S. Enterprise.

The commentary charged that "while feverishly preparing for new reckless war escalation steps in Vietnam, Johnson and company keep saying deceitful words about peaceful negotiations."

MRS. EILEEN KRAUS

Mother-In-Law Of Scott Romney Charged With Assault, Battery In All-Female Fight

Troy, Mich. (AP)—The mother-in-law of one of Gov. George Romney's sons has been charged with assault and battery against another socially prominent Michigan woman.

Mrs. Eileen Kraus, mother-in-law of Scott Romney, is charged with striking Mrs. Elizabeth Hill with a shoe, causing a head wound that was closed with six stitches.

In interviews with newsmen Tuesday, each side accused the other of starting the fight.

Office

The struggle took place Monday in the office of Mrs. Hill's husband, Walter P. Hill, board chairman of a firm which makes conveyor assemblies.

Hill, who was at his office at the time, said Mrs. Kraus and one of her daughters, Terry Stern, 22, attacked his wife.

Mrs. Kraus said Mrs. Hill and Miss Stern were struggling, so she hit Mrs. Hill with the shoe because "I was afraid of what she might do to Terry."

Miss Detroit

Miss Stern, named "Miss Detroit World" in a beauty contest in 1963, went with Mrs. Kraus to Hill's office to discuss a $364 repair bill for damages to Miss Stern's car.

Police said the Hills' son, Patrick, 23, was reported to have damaged Miss Stern's car by attacking it with a tire iron.

After the fight, Mrs. Hill swore out an assault and battery warrant in Municipal Court. It is pending.

Mrs. Kraus's other daughter, Ronna, is married to Scott Romney.

Julie Andrews Asks Divorce From Husband Tony Walton

Santa Monica, Calif. (AP) — Academy Award-winning star Julie Andrews filed for divorce Tuesday from British stage designer Tony Walton, charging mental cruelty.

The star of "Mary Poppins" and "The Sound of Music" thus started formal proceedings to end her eight-year marriage to Walton, 33, a childhood sweetheart. Her petition was filed in Superior Court by her Beverly Hills attorney, Allen E. Susman.

Miss Andrews, 32, who first achieved fame in the stage version of "My Fair Lady," has been separated from her husband since October, 1966.

For three years before that they had been living apart, she making films in Hollywood while he pursued a career in the New York and London theater.

They were married at Walton on the Thames, England, May 10, 1959. They have a daughter, Emma Kate, born Nov. 27, 1962.

Miss Andrews issued this statement:

"The varying demands of our careers have kept Tony and me apart for long periods of time, thus placing obvious strains upon our marriage. It has therefore become clear that a divorce will be in the best interests of all concerned."

Taft Seeks Recount Of Cleveland Ballots

Freight Rate Increase Withdrawn

The State Railway Commission said Tuesday it has been advised that a motor carrier freight increase between Nebraska and 117 points in Colorado has been cancelled and the increased rates have been withdrawn.

"We're delighted to learn of the motor carriers' decision to default on the objections raised by interests here in Nebraska," said Commission Chairman Fred N. Peterson. "The commission is proud of the part it played in objecting to this rate discrimination against Nebraska shippers."

Peterson commended the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, Lincoln Steel Corp. and Valmont Industries of Valley, Neb., "for joining with us to oppose the rate increases."

Assistant Attorney General Richard H. Williams Tuesday announced his resignation from the State Justice Department effective Dec. 1.

Rail Unit To Be At Bus Fare Hearing

The State Railway Commission said Tuesday it will intervene at a Nov. 30 hearing in Omaha on the request of the Omaha Transit Co. for a five cent increase in Omaha bus fares.

Commissioner James F. Munnelly said the intervention does not imply a commission position on the matter but "is simply an attempt to insure adequate representation of the users."

A member of the commission's legal staff, David J. Cullan, will be asked to intervene as representative of bus users.

The bus company has asked the five-cent rate hike for regular, occasion, infrequent, downtowner and accommodation passengers, the commission said.

The atmosphere in the capital city has been so sunny that getting the news has been difficult — people just don't want to stay at home. And reasons for being on the go-go this week include luncheons, bridge afternoons, holiday shopping and plain old visiting for suburban residents.

But let's enjoy the warm weather while we may. Soon the little jaunts to town or to the neighbors will mean boots, sweaters, scarves, snow tires and mittens plus a healthy dose of Nebraska fortitude.

Enjoying this good-neighboring sunshine today is Mrs. Dwaine Karr who will hostess a luncheon at her home. Invited for the good food and conversation are Mrs. Jack Casey, Mrs. Jim Keill, Mrs. Ervin Peterson and Mrs. Richard Lutz.

A Friday morning coffee at the home of Mrs. Dwaine Stauffer also will include refreshment and conversation, and invited Cotner Terrace neighbors include Mrs. George Welty, Mrs. Frank Heston, Mrs. Clifford Becker, Mrs. Don Smith, Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mrs. Eldon Craig, Mrs. James Schlegelmilch, Mrs. W. O. Carlson and Mrs. James Hauptmeier.

The November holiday certainly can never be any happier for Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harral than this one. Mr. and Mrs. Harral recently learned that their son-in-law and daughter, the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Overstreet, and their family will be residing in the city for the next two years. The Rev. Overstreet has accepted the pastorial post at the Green Memorial Alliance Church in the University Place neighborhood.

The Rev. and Mrs. Overstreet and their children returned to the United States in September after serving as missionaries for many years. They have been the houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Harral since their return.

And speaking of families returning to the Lincoln area — Mr. and Mrs. Garry D. Cartwright recently arrived in the city after spending a year and a half in Omaha, and now have a 7741 Holdrege address.

It appears that Meadow Lane residents already have met the former residents who have two daughters, Kimberly and Kristen. Mr. Cartwright is employed by the state.

The weekend at the Wedgewood Manor home of Mr. and Mrs. Perry L. Miller took on an international flavor when the couple entertained as their houseguest Miss Brenda Jones of Johannesburg, South Africa. Miss Jones currently is residing in Omaha as a graduate student and assistant at the Gene Eppley Institute and where she is doing cancer research.

The threesome became acquainted only recently through a mutual friend in the American Field Service program. The Millers were American hosts to a South African boy in 1962.

Cards made an exciting evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Derrill Trook Saturday. Playing pinochle at their monthly meeting were the host and hostess and Mr. and Mrs. Don Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bush and Mr. and Mrs. Horace Kirk.

Autumn Ceremony

At a 5:30 o'clock service, Saturday, Nov. 11, the wedding of Miss Susan Lynne Charles, daughter of Mrs. Chester E. Charles and the late Mr. Charles, and George Jay Friederich, son of Mrs. George R. Friederich of Menlo Park, Calif., and the late Mr. Friederich, took place at First-Plymouth Congregational Church. Dr. J. Ford Forsyth read the lines of the ceremony in the presence of members of the family.

Mrs. Richard Klug of Omaha, was the matron of honor. Her beige wool suit was complemented by a corsage of autumn-toned chrysanthemums.

Serving his cousin as best man was Richard Klug of Omaha.

The bride appeared in a daytime frock of winter white wool with a matching jacket accented with satin trim. A small hat of white tulle completed her costume, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with a cluster of Tropicana roses.

Following a wedding trip to Hawaii, the couple will live in San Mateo, Calif. A former student at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Towne Club. Mrs. Friederich is a graduate of the Lincoln School of Commerce. Mr. Friederich received his degree from the College of San Mateo, San Mateo, Calif.

Dinner

Mrs. James Kerrey was hostess to the members of Phi Sigma Alpha cultural sorority at a dinner at her home, Monday evening.

Two new members, Mrs. James Looker and Mrs. Robert Mahoney were initiated into the group, and a program of films on Norway were shown by Mrs. E. J. Kahoa.

Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Francis Thompson, Mrs. Edwin Imm and Mrs. L. C. Price.

Benefit Planned

A meeting of the board of Clinton PTA has been planned for Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The meeting will be held in room 205, of the school.

The bidding:

Opening lead — four of clubs.

There are situations that arise during the play where your only hope of making a contract, or defeating one, lies in persuading your opponent that a condition exists which, in fact, does not exist.

It does not matter whether you classify such psychological warfare under the heading of deception, falsecarding, or any other term; what really matters is that you succeed in selling your opponent the particular idea you have in mind.

Here is an unusual case where West managed to defeat a contract which declarer would normally have made. It did not appear to West that a heart lead offered much chance of collecting four tricks — East had passed originally and had then bid only two hearts —so he decided to lead his singleton club.

East cashed the A-K and returned a club which West ruffed with the king! As a result of this imaginative play, South, rightly or not, went down one.

Declarer won the heart return with the ace, led a low spade from dummy, and finessed the nine after East had followed low. West took the ten for the setting trick, and that was the end of that.

Now let's suppose West had ruffed the third club with the ten, which would seem to be the normal thing to do. In that case, declarer would presumably have made the hand, since West would become marked by the bidding with the king of spades after East had shown up with the A-K of clubs. South would probably have cashed the ace of spades instead of taking a finesse and would thus have made the contract.

By ruffing with the king, West sold declarer the idea that he could not possibly have the jack or ten, and that East therefore had the J-10-5. It can be argued that declarer should not have fallen into the trap set by West, but this does not detract from the credit due West for a highly imaginative play.

Church Wedding

For the wedding of Miss Linda Reisinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oren E. Reisinger of Aurora, and Allen Joe Cetak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cetak of Ord, which took place Sunday evening, Nov. 5, clusters of lighted white candles decorated the chancel of the Evangelical United Brethren Church in Aurora. The Rev. Donald Nunnally read the lines of the 7 o'clock service, and the wedding music was played by Miss Linda Ross, organist. The vocalists were Miss Carol Springer and Miss Cheryl Springer.

Floor-length frocks of satin in the autumn green shade were worn by Miss Ann Reisinger, as her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Martha Sue Reisinger, also a sister of the bride, and Miss Diane Severeide, Sioux City, Iowa. They carried nosegays of bronze chrysanthemums.

Dennis Cetak served his brother as best man, and the corps of ushers included Mike Sullivan, Bob Serenker, Herman Pokorny, Don Geweke and Dale Naprstek, all of Ord.

Floral appliques of Alencon lace, traced with seed pearls, trimmed the bride's gown of white delustered satin. A crescent neckline contoured the long-sleeved bodice, and the high waistline was accented with lace applique which continued in a vertical panel to the hem of the slender skirt. The lace was repeated on the aisle-wide court train, and a crown of jeweled lace held her bouffant veil of illusion. She carried a cascade of white glamellias centered with a white orchid.

Mr. Cetak, a former student at Kearney State College, and his bride will make their home in Ord. Mrs. Cetak attended the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority.

ABBY: you lost your chance

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Did I do a stupid thing? A very handsome middle-aged physician has just moved into my apartment building. And glory be! He is a bachelor, and I am single, too, and am just about the right age for him. He gives me a nice hello when he sees me, but because of his profession he is always in a hurry.

I wanted to get to know him better, so I called his office and made an appointment for a routine physical.

When I appeared I must say that he was most professional about it, and it was in every sense of the word "routine." He hasn't called me, as I had hoped he would.

How can I get this doctor interested in me? He sees beautiful women all day long and the competition is terrific.

I don't want to scare him off by inviting him to something like a cocktail party, dinner or concert, as I understand he runs a mile from the aggressive-type woman.

Maybe if I could come up with some rare and interesting disease he would take a special interest in me. But how can I get one?

PLAIN JANE

DEAR JANE: Forget the disease. That would only make you more of a "clinical specimen." As it is, when you lined up that "physical" you probably killed your chances. (Ethical doctors do not cavort with their patients.)

DEAR ABBY: Our 21-year-old daughter is a senior at college. She has written several times asking us if she can bring her boyfriend home with her for the weekend.

My husband and I have discussed this a number of times, and we do not feel that it is the proper thing for her to do. We have nothing against the boy, as we have never even met him.

Our daughter says that all her college friends take their boyfriends home for weekends.

What is your feeling in the matter?

WORRIED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If your daughter wants to spend the weekend with her boyfriend, I can't think of a better place for them to be than in your home.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Smooth Beauty Into Your Skin

The colder months can give your skin a lovely youthful bloom, but guard against any tendency to wrinkle-dryness that may be caused by over-exposure to cold air. Even mildly crisp air causes the skin to contract, preventing moisture from reaching the surface cells. Ask your druggist for oil of Olay and before making-up, smooth it over your face and neck, being careful to pat it in generously around the eyes. This beautifying moist oil will soon ease away every trace of dryness and give the skin a healthy bloom throughout the winter season.

Sod-Planted Lawns Popular, Nurserymen Told

"The trend toward exclusive use of sod in planting lawns is "well on its way" in Nebraska, an expert in the landscaping business reported here Tuesday.

"Less than 1% of all lawns in the Minneapolis, Minn., area is put in by seed and the trend is rapidly coming to this state," Larry Bachman, owner-operator of a permanent nursery business in Minneapolis, declared.

Homeowners as well as commercial enterprises have found that sod is the most effective way to start a lawn unless the grass area is of tremendous size or minimum maintenance and water is not available, he said.

Pasture Sod

Growers also are switching from pasture sod to culture-grown sod which gives relatively insect, disease-and weed-free sod for "very few cents more per square yard," the nursery man pointed out.

Bachman was here to address the convention of Nebraska Association of Nurserymen held Monday and Tuesday.

He reported that the most significant improvements in shade trees are the development of varieties with more uniform and faster rates of growth.

'Minimizing Work'

The emphasis in landscaping today is on "minimizing work for the homeowner," Bachman said. "Landscapers are designing with maintenance in mind."

Mulches are used in bed planting to keep weeds down and hold in moisture in addition to providing attractiveness in planting, it was noted.

The improved varieties of trees and shrubs are used in landscaping designs because growth is controlled so that pruning and trimming is not necessary.

'Uniform Growth'

Discussing some of the improved varieties of shade trees, Bachman cited the Marshal's Improved Ash as an advance over the Green Ash because it has "more uniform growth, darker green coloring, larger leaves, more symmetry and tends to be seed-free."

A further improved variety of the Ash is the Summit Ash which has more upright characteristics, according to Bachman.

Developments of the European Linden, the Greenspire and Chancellor, are "excellent small street trees or for any limited space."

Sugar Maple

There are also available several improved sugar maple varieties, known in the trade as Green Mountain, which feature stronger crotches, making them less susceptible to wind damage, Bachman said.

He cited the Columnar Norway, an improvement over the Norway Maple, as a good replacement for popular trees because it is "narrow-growing."

STATE NURSERYMEN ELECT COOPER

Justice Department Defends '67 Income Tax Act

The State Justice Department Tuesday defended the 1967 income tax act as a "good tax law, a fair one, a constitutional one."

The statement was contained in written arguments to the State Supreme Court in the lawsuit contesting the validity of the sweeping tax act.

The tribunal will hear oral arguments on the widely-watched suit Dec. 4. Both sides are hopeful of a decision before the levy takes effect Jan. 1.

Unconstitutional?

Opponents of the tax have asked the court to strike the law down. They maintain it is broadly unconstitutional, especially as regards the rate-setting and collection procedures.

In September Lancaster County District Judge Herbert A. Ronin declared the act, with one minor exception, is a completely valid law that can be imposed on the state's 1.5 million residents.

Nebraskans have never paid an income tax at the state level. The act under fire was adopted last spring by the Legislature along with a sales tax, which has been in force since June.

Protection

Assistant Atty. Gen. Richard H. Williams, in an 83-page legal brief supporting the act, said the law contains adequate protections for the taxpayer and makes it easy for him to compute his assessment.

The levy is applied against the amount of federal taxes paid by an individual. Corporations are assessed on their taxable income.

The State Board of Equalization already has established the initial rate at 10% on individuals and 2% on corporations.

Rejected

Williams rejected the plaintiffs' argument that tying the levy to present and future federal income tax laws violated the equal protection clause of the state and U.S. constitutions.

He said Nebraska voters specifically authorized this procedure last year when they adopted a state amendment permitting the Legislature to base an income tax law upon the laws of the United States.

"This entire case turns on the fact the people of the state did authorize a change in the basic constitution to permit the Legislature to adopt a revenue system based on federal laws—as they exist and as they may come into being," Williams said.

'Undoubtedly'

"If the court rejects this meaning of the constitutional change, then LB377 (income-sales tax act) undoubtedly cannot be supported.

"If the court accepts this meaning, then a great deal of plaintiffs' arguments are not in point, because, as is perfectly, clear, the constitution is the supreme law of this state."

Williams denied there was an abdication of the state's sovereignty to the federal government under the tax law. He said the Legislature still has ultimate control over the levy and can change the law from time to time if it so desires.

Credit Hit

Foes of the levy have also attacked the food sales tax credit portion of the law which grants a $7 per dependent credit to Nebraskans.

They contend this is discriminatory against nonresidents who work in Nebraska and are required to pay the state income tax.

But Williams said it is "not discrimination to fail to extend a credit to those nonresident persons who do not share in the burden of the tax on food items."

He said the expressed intent of the credit is to compensate Nebraskans—and not nonresidents—for the lack of a general food exemption in the sales tax law.

Plaintiffs in the suit, which does not challenge the sales tax, include Philip C. Anderson and Raymond Weilage, Jr., both of Crete; Jack L. Etherington and Charles E. Bray, both of Council Bluffs, Iowa; Robert M. Niquette of Lititz, Pa.; The Feed Service Corp. of Nebraska, and Morea Liquifeed Corp. of Illinois.

Hanry Leaving Omaha Chamber

Omaha (UPI) — James L. Hanry, executive vice president and general manager of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce, announced Tuesday he is resigning his post, effective immediately.

Hanry has served in the position for eight years. He was formerly manager of the chamber of commerce in Wichita Falls, Tex.

Keith Carter, assistant general manager for economic development, has been named interim general manager until the successor is named.

Big Orange Pumpkin

His mother called him Demosthenes Konstandis Andrecopolous . . . Former Lincoln sports writer Jim Raglin remembers him as an enthusiastic bundle of warmth . . . On the West Coast, his fans affectionately refer to him as "The Great Orange Pumpkin."

But there are at least three coaches of top football teams, who are wishing they had never encountered Dee Andros, who, in his game garb, looks like something you might use as an ornament on your front yard at Halloween . . . if you had a big yard.

Dee Andros

Andros' young Oregon State team with only five seniors, has poll-axed two second-rated top 10 teams this season, beating Purdue, 22-14, and tying UCLA, 16--16 then defeating top-ranked Southern Cal, 3-0, last weekend.

"We not only think he's the greatest coach," says Oregon State sports information director John Eggers, "but we also think he is the most colorful."

The former Nebraska assistant coach under Pete Elliott is dressed for games in black slacks, an orange and black tie, orange and black socks, a bright orange jacket and orange and black golf shoes with orange flaps.

Orange and black, in case you wondered, are Oregon State's colors.

The color scheme came during his second year as a head coach—at Idaho.

"After my first year at Idaho, I was out playing golf with some alumni and they suggested I wear silver and gold (Idaho colors) golf shoes at Idaho games," Andros recalled during a phone conversation.

"So the Etonic Golf Shoe Company fixed me up with a pair, then when I moved to Oregon State, they got me a pair of orange and black ones."

Andros Causes Pile-Ups

One of the bigger pile-ups at Oregon State football games comes when the 250-pound Andros leads his team onto the field.

"It's quite a sight to see this 5-10, 250-pound man dressed in orange and black sprinting out across the field ahead of the team," Egger explains. "The players have to hold back a little to keep from running over him.

"Then as soon as he reaches the bench, he whirls quickly and gives them the signal to stop. It's the biggest pile-up you'll ever see as they crash into each other stopping."

While his colorful apparel didn't appear until he became a head coach, Andros has always led his teams onto the field, even when an assistant at Nebraska.

"I'm not as fast as I used to be," he jokes. "The kids have to slow down a little, but I warn them that the first one who passes me loses his scholarship."

Andros has always been a bundle of energy and is given credit by some for ending Nebraska track coach Frank Sevigne's budding tennis career.

Underwater Swim Too Much

Raglin, the former Lincoln sports writer and now in the public relations field, was one of Andros' closest friends when he coached at Nebraska.

"He beat Frank Sevigne so many times in tennis that Frank gave his racket away and quit the sport," Raglin recalls.

Reminded of his tennis playing days, Andros recalled that there was more than tennis involved.

"We sort of had a decathlon going," he remembers, "with a lot of different sports and one of them was underwater swimming.

"I almost drowned trying that one."

Because of a mathematical formula used to pick the Pacific-8 Rose Bowl representative, football fans will be robbed of the chance to see the Great Orange Pumpkin on their color television sets New Years Day despite his having beaten Southern Cal and tied UCLA, the two teams who will decide this week which one goes.

Andros in the Rose Bowl might have been a great boon to color TV sales.

8-MAN BACKS EXPLOSIVE

Linemen Also Quick On '67 Dream Team

. . . BACKFIELD UNBEATEN

By RICK AKIN

An explosive backfield operating behind a quick-charging line—that's the eight-man all-state football team.

The backfield represents teams compiling a combined record of 26-0 and good enough to make the top ten in the Nebraska Prep Ratings.

The state's Class 220 sprint champion last spring, David Bohlken averaged 7.5 yards a carry in Talmage's versatile backfield with 844 yards on 113 carries.

His greatest incentive apparently came at the goal line. Bohlken scored 25 touchdowns and 11 extra points for 161 total points in seven games. He scored 338 points in four years.

Chris Kraus of Madrid Wheatland was the most proactive yard maker of the three-man backfield. The 5-9, 160-pounder rushed for 1,170 and passed for 1,271—an offensive total of 2,441 yards. He scored 197 points.

Shelby's Dan Wombacher excelled both offensively and defensively with 1,015 rushing yards for a 10.6 yards a carry average, 187 points scored, 21 pass receptions, 127 tackles and five fumble recoveries.

Stocky guard Doug Alms (5-9, 190) also proved versatile. Writes one coach: "We had a great deal of admiration for his fine defensive work, as well as for his offensive blocking, which repeatedly opened gaping holes for the Malcolm runners."

Alms participated in 107 tackles and intercepted three passes, one of which he returned for a touchdown.

Maywood center Joe Knox could have played in the backfield. "He's the fastest man on the team," writes coach Gary DeBoer. Knox, 6-0 by 180, was all-Hi-Line Conference three consecutive years.

Elgin guard Bill Kuester (5-11, 196) had honors heaped upon him last year which should return this season. In 1966 he was named among the top 20 Classes B, C, D and eight-man football players, in Northeast Nebraska, was a unanimous all-Sandhills Gateway Conference selection and lettered four years, three years as a regular.

During those four seasons Elgin has 18 straight victoris, a 29-2 conference record, a 29-4 over-all record, three conference championships and two undefeated seasons.

At the ends are Lewiston's Ron Tegtmeier (5-10, 150), who caught 18 touchdown passes, and Big Springs' Jack Brestel (6-3, 180) who received heavy western support.

It's an all-senior team.

OU's Warmack Top Back

. . . HUSKER GREGORY 2ND IN BIG 8 BALLOTING

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — Oklahoma's Bob Warmack, a frail-looking 170-pounder who strikes like lightning, was voted Big Eight Back of The Week Tuesday after quarterbacking the Sooners' 52-14 stampede over Iowa State Saturday.

Warmack played only half the game against Iowa State but totaled 218 yards, running 25 yards for one touchdown and throwing 76 yards for another.

"Bob just turned in another of his fine quarterbacking jobs for us," praised coach Chuck Fairbanks.

The 6-footer finished with 47 yards rushing on nine carries and hit seven of 13 passes for 171 yards before going to the bench with Oklahoma in front, 40-0.

Only in his junior year, Warmack already holds the Oklahoma pass completion career record of 107, breaking the old mark of 106 set by Jack Jacobs in 1939, 1940 and 1941.

Warmack has taken the explosive Sooners on 22 sustained touchdown drives this season, 15 of which have spanned 60 or more yards, or 1,463 yards — more than three-fourths of a mile.

With three games left this season, he needs only 33 yards passing to crack the Oklahoma career mark of 1,641 set by Bob Dunlap more than 30 years ago (1931-33;.

Nebraska halfback Ben Gregory, who carried 20 times in the Cornhuskers' 9-0 win over Oklahoma State and netted 120 yards, finished second in the balloting of the panel of Big Eight sports writers.

"This was probably Ben's best day ever . . . Almost all his yards came on second-effort running," said assistant coach Mike Corgan. "He also was almost 100% effective on blocking."

Gregory had been having his troubles this season and "he was almost getting to the point of not wanting to carry the ball," said coach Bob Devaney. "But, he came back and had his best day."

Other backs nominated were Kansas quarterback Bobby Douglass, who totaled 200 yards for the sixth time in eight games — hitting eight of 23 passes for 181 yards and rushing for 45 more in a 12-8 loss to Colorado; halfback Jon Staggers of Missouri, whose dazzling 50-yard touchdown run put the Tigers ahead to stay in a 28-6 win over Kansas State; Colorado slotback John Farler, 46 yards rushing against Kansas; halfback Les Webster of Iowa State, 19 yards rushing and effective blocking against Oklahoma; Kansas State punter Bob Coble, with a 43-yard average on 11 kicks against Missouri, and defensive back Benny Goodwin of Oklahoma State, with eight tackles and one pass interception at Nebraska.

Two Husker Receivers Out

Two Nebraska pass receivers missed Tuesday's workout with injuries suffered early in the practice session, but both are expected to be ready for Saturday's game at Missouri.

Flanker Tom Penney suffered a broken finger and tight end Dennis Morrison was felled by a muscle spasm. Both were taken immediately to the Nebraska Student Health Center for treatment.

"Both of them should be recovered sufficiently to play Saturday," Husker trainer Paul Schneider said.

Penny is the Huskers' third ranking pass receiver in number of catches with 14 while Morrison is second in pass reception yardage with 188.

'Broke' Multimillionaire Appeals To Creditors

Philadelphia (AP)—Jerry Wolman once said it took friendly creditors and friendly banks to raise him from a bankrupt grocer to a multimillionaire sportsman and financier. Tuesday, he called on both to keep his diversified empire from tottering.

The 40-year-old owner of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League confirmed at a news conference he was in financial trouble because of a cash shortage and time.

Surrounded by his lawyers and business manager, the chain-smoking Wolman said: "My assets are many, many, many dollars more than my liabilities. I can get the cash if I get the time."

A report accountants prepared for Wolman listed his total assets at $92,182,946 and liabilities at $85,321,440. He said he sent the report to his 300 creditors, asking them to wait for their money.

Wolman said a turndown by three creditors could force him into court for a reorganization. Then, he said, it would take three to five years for anyone to get a dime, and in the end they would receive less than 20 cents on a dollar. Under his proposal, he would pay 20 per cent now and the balance within 18 months — 100 cents on a dollar.

The 5-foot-7 Wolman, his boyish face lined with the evidence of the 20-hour days he has been working to solve his financial dilemna, answered questions for almost two hours. He still, however, maintained the sense of humor that has marked his personality since he bought the Eagles for $5.5 million four years ago.

"On my way to the office this morning," said Wolman, "I heard a radio news report on my finances. Boy, was it disastrous."

Then, the frail looking, dark-haired young man from the eastern Pennsylvania coal town of Shenandoah turned serious.

He explained what has placed in jeopardy the fortune he built after giving up selling tomatoes to his neighbors for the lucrative world of construction and real estate.

He invested $11 million in a skyscraper building for the John Hancock Life Insurance Co. in Chicago, ran into some construction problems and lost $5.5 million. He said he found it difficult to borrow money in a market "which became tight overnight." It reacted on his other interests like a bowling ball hitting the head pin. Things began to crumble.

He said all his assets but the Eagles were for sale, including the new $12 million Spectrum he built as a home for pro basketball's champion Philadelphia 76ers and Philadelphia's new National Hockey League team.

UCLA JUMPS TO NO. 1 SPOT

Eager Beavers Claim Slice Of Grid Ratings

Compiled From News Wires

The fellow with the long name could provide a short field for UCLA when the Bruins battle the Southern California Trojans on Saturday in the Rose Bowl decider.

Zenon Andrusyshyn does the punting and place kicking for Coach Tommy Prothro's undefeated club, and rival coach John McKay of Southern California declared, "He's so fantastic the field becomes shorter."

UCLA surged into first place in the national college football rankings this week, the major development in a shakeup of the Top Ten resulting primarily from another one of Oregon State's poll-axing performances.

The Beavers' 3-0 victory over Southern California last Saturday helped UCLA climb into the No. 1 spot and dumped the Trojans into fourth place in AP and third in UPI.

Oregon State also cut itself in for a slice of the Top Ten pie, taking over eighth place.

McKay explained to the Southern California Football Writers that UCLA doesn't have to penetrate so far to put Andrusyshyn into position for a field goal, and his 46-yard punting average gives rivals a longer way to go when they get the ball.

The sophomore from Canada ranks second to Gary Beban in UCLA scoring with 60 points, 27 on conversions and 33 on field goals. He tried a 58-yarder against Washington last Saturday that hit the upright above the crossbar. He has failed to kick a field goal in only two games this season.

Andrusyshyn suffered a cracked bone in his right hand late in the Washington game, but that won't keep him out of action.

"We have to stop Beban and Greg Jones to keep UCLA from the 50 so Andrusyshyn can't kick the field goals," McKay commented wryly.

Newcastle's Perfect Record Captures 'D'

. . . TALMAGE SITS ATOP 8-MAN RATINGS

By RICK AKIN
Prep Sports Writer

Newcastle, the only rated Class D team to survive with an unmarred record, and Talmage, which is one of eight eight-man rated teams with unbeaten and untied records, reign as state champions in the final Nebraska Prep Ratings.

Nebraska Prep Ratings

By Rick Akin

Class D

1—Newcastle (8-0)
2—Pilger (6-3)
3—Lawrence (7-1-1)
4—Wolbach (7-2)
5—Amherst (8-1)
6—Thedford (7-2)
7—Potter (7-2)
8—Lyman (5-1-1)
9—Arcadia (6-2)
10—Loup City CC (5-1-1)

Comment—Newcastle steams to the championship as the only undefeated Class D team.

Eight-Man

1—Talmage (7-0)
2—Madrid Wheatland (8-0)
3—Sutherland (9-0)
4—Shelby (10-0)
5—Ashton (6-1)
6—Cedar Bluffs (8-0)
7—Elgin (10-0)
8—Republican City (7-0)
9—Sterling (7-1)
10—Milligan (8-0)

Comment—Eight of the final top ten go undefeated in a close race.

Only one of the other D teams appearing—Amherst—has less than two black marks, including No. 2 Pilger which lost three to successful Class C schools — Battle Creek, Humphrey St. Francis and Decatur.

No. 3 Lawrence had an early loss and an early tie but since then swept through the second half of the season undefeated.

Eight-man was a different story. All eight of the untouched had claims to the title. But as one coach said: "If Talmage isn't the best, I'd hate to play one better."

Madrid Wheatland, Sutherland and Shelby round out the top four with unbeaten records, but No. 5 Ashton took one loss to Class D's Loup City Central Catholic.

Cedar Bluffs, Elgin, Republican City and Milligan are others unscathed who rank among the best.

No. 9 Sterling took only a loss, Adams, in a hectic Homesteader Conference chase.

Dunkel's Top Rating To Purdue

Hunting Report

SOUTHEAST

Quail shooting is generally good, with the southernmost counties showing the best results in the opening days of the season as most hunters report seeing from four to seven coveys a day. Many limits are being taken, and most gunners are getting some bobwhites. Pheasant action continues fair, and field conditions are gradually improving with advancing harvest. Large hunting parties working big fields are seeing the most action, and dogs are almost a necessity with the heavy cover. There is some waterfowl activity in lagoon areas and on farm ponds.

SOUTHWEST

Bobwhites are abundant, but most hunters are still after pheasants. Success on both species varies from fair to good depending on the area, but as crops are taken out of the fields the success should climb. Hunters report seeing good numbers of birds throughout the southwest, with the western portion best. Duck hunting is good along the Platte River and on or near the reservoirs, and some geese are using Lake McConaughy, Harlan County Reservoir, and other impoundments.

PANHANDLE

Some of the best quail shooting in this area is along the North Platte River and in tree strips and valley areas in the central portion. Pheasants are providing top shooting in the state near the south, and in the northern and eastern poritons of the Panhandle. The ringnecks are becoming wilder, although hunting pressure has slackened since last week. Waterfowl hunting is tops in many areas and improving in others. Shooters are finding action in fields near refuges such as the Garden County Refuge, which holds over 3,500 Canada geese and 30,000 mallards.

SAND HILLS

Areas to the south and east are fair to good for pheasant and quail. Ringneck hunting in the southern portion is among the best in the state because cover conditions are better than elsewhere. Waterfowl hunting is fair in the northern region, including Niobrara and Middle Loup rivers and parts of Boyd County.

NORTHEAST

Some good waterfowl hunting is reported along the Missouri River from Boyd County on downstream, with more good shooting along the river from Wynot to St. Helena, at Lewis and Clark Lake, and near the DeSoto Bend Refuge. This refuge has heavy concentrations of ducks and geese which feed in fields between Decatur and Blair. Lake Babcock, a refuge near Columbus, has 6,000 ducks and 200 geese. Pheasant success if fair generally over the district, but quail shooting is good in some locales towards the southwest of the area, where gunners are averaging four birds daily.

Boxing Smoker Set For Tonight

Lincoln's Roberts Dairy Boxing Club will send three veterans into the ring tonight in the first Golden Gloves boxing smoker of the season at the State Fairgrounds.

Roberts Dairy coaches Larry Emery and Dick Matthews have had veterans Russ Blank, Monte Cady and Mike Wilson working out for several weeks in preparing for the boxing season that will get under way at 8 p.m.

The team also has several other members ready to make their Capital City boxing debut on tonight's card, sponsored by the Lincoln Master Barbers Association.

Boxing chairman Bill DeRock also has lined up fighters from South Sioux City, Omaha and the Lincoln Job Corps for the program.

Peru Cagers Debut

Peru — Peru State College will open its 1967-68 basketball schedule Monday when the Bobcats tangles with former Peru State stars in the annual Alumni game.

Tuesday, Peru State will open the intercollegiate season by hosting Tarkio College at 7:30 p.m.

Big 8 Grid Workouts

K-State

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — Influenza has sidelined two Kansas State players and a third has an ankle injury, Coach Vince Gibson said Tuesday after putting his Wildcat squad through a lengthy workout.

Gibson sid Marty Allen, offensive linesman and Mike Murray, defensive back, have the flu and Bob Cole, leading punter in the Big Eight, suffered an ankle injury and may not be able to play against Colorado Saturday.

The coach said he hoped K-State would be able to move the football a little better against Colorado than the total of 18 yards against Missouri last Saturday.

Okla State

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma State football players turned out in full gear Tuesday for what coach Phil Cutchin described as a semi-contact workout.

The OSU coach apparently was more favorably impressed with his charges than usual.

"I think we got something out of today's work," Cutchin said. "It was sharper than the usual Tuesday practice."

However, Cutchin said, "We've got to get everything going at the same time" to beat Iowa State at Ames Saturday.

Iowa State

Ames, Iowa (AP) — Starting defensive safety Cal Lewis probably will miss Iowa State's game with Oklahoma State here Saturday because of a deep head cut suffered in a freak locker room accident.

Coach Clay Stapleton said Tuesday 12 stitches were required to close the cut, suffered when Lewis fell in the shower room following Monday night's workout.

"He can't even get his helment on over the wound, so he probably won't play Saturday," said Stapleton.

Linebacker Lon Snook, who injured a knee last weekend, saw some action during the Cyclones' 90-minute workout Tuesday.

The drill included 15-minute offensive and defensive scrimages against the reserves.

Missouri

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Coach Dan Devine, readying Missouri's football team for Saturday's game with Nebraska here, praised the Cornhuskers' defense Tuesday.

"Nobody has scored on them in their last three games," he said. "The last team they lost to was Colorado, which beat them mostly on intercepted passes."

"And offensively, there can't be any better three backs in the country in one backfield than Ben Gregory, Joe Orduna and Dick Davis.

Tuesday's practice included extra work on punting.

Halfback Jon Staggers and defensive back Butch Davis, who suffered head injuries last wek worked out lightly. Devine said both should be at full speed by Wednesday.

Oklahoma

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Chuck Fairbanks said Tuesday the Sooners realize they must play well against Kansas Saturday if they expect to receive a bowl bid.

The Sooners have been mentioned as prospects for the Orange Bowl.

"Kansas is a real fine football team," Fairbanks said. "Before we can realize a bowl, we must play well against Kansas."

The Sooners went through a contact drill Tuesday and Fairbanks termed it a "real good spirited practice." He said the Sooners will face another tough practice session today.

Reserve end Dave Frazer will be out of uniform for the next two weeks with a broken hand bone.

Kansas

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Three players who suffered injuries in the Colorado game last Saturday missed football practice Tuesday at the University of Kansas.

Expected to be ready for this Saturday's contest with Oklahoma are tailback Junior Riggins, who suffered a shoulder injury, defensive tackle Orivlle Turgeon shoulder injury, and middle guard Emery Hicks, a sore elbow.

Bill Lynch, who missed the last two games with a bad knee, may make the trip to Oklahoma a team spokesman said, but he probably will not play.

The Jayhawks worked with hip pads Tuesday in what Coach Pepper Rodgers called a customary practice.

Rodgers said "the Colorado loss didn't hurt our morale. The only thing that hurts is playing Oklahoma."

Bobcat Distance Men Defend NAIA Title

Peru — Peru State College will send its cross country team in defense of two straight championships of District 11 of the National Association of Inter-collegiate Athletics Friday.

Peru State copped the district title in 1965 and 1966 prior to placing third and seventh, respectively, in the national NAIA runs those years. Both the district and the nationals, the latter to be run this year Nov. 25, are held on the four-mile course at Elmwood Park in Omaha.

Gibson Gets 'Eyes' Award

Hastings — Bob Gibson of Omaha, star pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, today was named the latest recipient of the "Eyes on Nebraska" award.

Given by the Nebraska Optometric Association to Nebraskans who through their actions contribute to the betterment of the state, the award was announced for Gibson for his three pitching victories in the 1967 World Series over the Boston Red Sox.

Dr. Wade Nyquist of West Point said, "Our Association is especially proud of the fact that Bob Gibson recently spoke of his pride in being a Nebraskan.

"He told a welcome-home audience in Omaha that it disturbs him that people from other parts of the nation ask him "where?" when he says he is from Omaha."

Dr. Nyquist added that the "eyes of the nation were cast on this man in the seventh and final game of the series.

—SATURDAY SHOWDOWN—

OU, KU Star QB's To Meet

Norman, Okla. (AP) — When first year head coaches Chuck Fairbanks of Oklahoma and Pepper Rodgers of Kansas get together here Saturday, they'll be facing a showdown in the Big Eight Conference and nobody figured this would be the case when the season opened.

But while Oklahoma can clinch a tie for the title with a victory and Kansas could move back into the league lead with a win, a lesser showdown comes between a pair of junior quarterbacks who are on a collision course for the all-Big Eight conference quarterback selection.

Bob Douglas of Kansas and Bob Warmack of Oklahoma have pretty well narrowed it to a two-man battle and it's a good bet a fine performance Saturday could give the edge to either.

Douglass, a left-handed junior hurler who has one of the strongest arms in college football, has had over 200 yards total offense in each of the Jayhawks' last four games. He leads the conference in passing and total offense

Warmack doesn't compare in the statistic chase but the willowy wisp, who was named the Big Eight Back of the Week for his performance against Iowa State, yields nothing in ability to move his team.

The junior signal caller, who rose to fame as he guided Oklahoma to its first win over Texas in eight years during his sophomore season, has taken Oklahoma on 22 touchdown drives, 15 of them 60 yards or longer.

Warmack weighs something less than 170 pounds and is 6 feet tall. He has huge hands that aid his faking, and his reactions are lightening fast.

His passing is much improved over last year, and he's within easy reach of Oklahoma's career passing records.

Warmack would have to rank as almost invaluable to the Sooner attack. His poise and confidence carried them through early season games and now his smoothness controls most games.

Douglass has been a surprise to conference observers, who recalled Coach Pepper Rodgers saying before the season that Douglass would be a man to watch.

Nicklaus Gets Golfing Award

. . . WINS IN LANDSLIDE

Palm Beach, Fla. (AP)—Beating arch-rival Arnold Palmer by a landslide, Jack Nicklaus was named the Professional Golfer of the Year Tuesday. It was one of few honors that had eluded Nicklaus during a meteoric six-year-old career.

The 27-year-old Golden Bear was in Mexico on a television commitment when the award was announced at the President's dinner, highlight of the annual meeting of the Professional Golfers' Association.

The occasion also marked the induction of Wee Bobby Cruikshank as the 38th member of golf's Hall of Fame.

JACK NICKLAUS

Nicklaus, who teamed with Palmer last week to win the World Cup matches at Mexico City, is expected to return here Thursday to take his place as a newly-elected member of the PGA tournament committee.

He beat out Palmer by better than 2-1 in the balloting on Player of the Year by PGA members and golf writers. Don January, 1966 PGA champion, was a remote third among 32 players drawing votes.

Nicklaus, youngest player ever to win the Masters, the PGA championship and the U.S. Open, has already smashed all money-winning records on the 1967 tour.

His official earnings for the year — in tournaments sanctioned by the PGA — now stand at $188,998, far surpassing his own mark of $140,752 set in 1965. He has amassed an additional $72,568 in unofficial tournaments and the World Series of Golf for a whopping $214,320.

His official total since he turned pro in 1962 now places him second behind Palmer on the lifetime money-winning list — and Palmer was a pro when Jack was only a sophomore in high school. Winning six major titles this year, Nicklaus moved ahead of Billy Casper, another veteran.

In three of the last four years, the big, blonde Nicklaus has dominated the tour. Casper, playing in five more tournaments, edged him out for the top spot last year.

Nicklaus, who calls nearby lost Tree Village his home, has captured three Masters titles, two U.S. Open championships, the PGA championship, the British Open and 24 official PGA tournaments.

He took the Masters in 1965 and 1966 to become the only player to score back-to-back victories.

The 73-year-old Cruikshank, who works as a pro in the summers at Chartiers Country Club in Pittsburgh and winters at Gulfstream Country Club in Florida, was voted into the Hall of Fame by its 27 living members.

Cruikshank was twice runnerup in the U.S. Open, losing to the great Bobby Jones in a playoff in 1923 and finishing second to Gene Sarazen in 1932. He lost the PGA championship to Sarazen twice in the semi-finals.

Ernie Vossler of Oklahoma City was cited as the club pro of the year. Don Fischesser of Evansville, Ind., received the Horton Smith Award for outstanding contributions during the year to the PGA education program.

Tigers, NU To Test Stats

New York City — The nation's only two college football teams that are ranked in the top 10 in all four major defensive statistics will be squaring off at Columbia, Mo., Saturday.

National Collegiate Sports Service figures released Tuesday show Nebraska and Missouri as the only teams in the 10 in total defense, rushing defense, pass defense and defense against scoring.

Nebraska is the leader in total defense with a 139.1 average while Missouri ranks third with 170.6. The Huskers are third in rushing defense, allowing 51.4 yards per game while the Tigers are seventh, giving up 78.8 yards per contest.

In pass defense, Nebraska is fourth at 87.8 and Missouri sixth at 91.9. Oklahoma State is the leader with 80.7 and Oklahoma is ninth at 94.9.

The top three teams in defense against scoring all are from the Big Eight with Oklahoma leading on a 4.3 points permitted average; Missouri and Nebraska tied for second at 6.5.

Kansas State is tied for seventh in punting with a 42.1 average.

Oklahoma ranks 12th in total offense, averaging 381.6, and is fourth in rushing offense with 248.7.

Doane Does It

New York City — Doane College ranks third in small college football scoring with 43 points per game, according to the National Collegiate Sports Service.

Market Takes Thumping Loss

New York (AP) — The stock market took another thumping loss Tuesday. Trading was active.

The Dow industrials fell 7.34 to 852.40, approaching once more the 848-850 support level which analysts said would have to be "tested" again to see if it would be strong enough to serve as a springboard for a more sustained recovery.

Volume was 10.35 million shares compared with 10.14 million Monday.

Of 1,485 issues traded, 942 fell and 337 rose. New highs for the year totaled 12 and new lows 102.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Private Business Interested In Solving Cities' Problems

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Complex Problem

Dynamic business in the United States is a basic civilizing force.

The decay of cities, with its wake of riots, calls for application of the genius of the management philosophy to this complex problem.

To put the matter in the crassest terms, slum areas, with human degradation, are uninviting markets for goods and services. While the "do gooders" have floundered, it is encouraging that profit-oriented voluntary institutions are looking into the problem.

A sign of the times is the pledge of 348 insurance companies to see if there are opportunities to invest $1 billion in workable projects in ghetto areas. Unlike government and free lance propagandists, businessmen are disciplined by the cost sheet, and schemes, fanciful and otherwise, are tested by whether the providers of funds can get their capital back.

It is reassuring to find the view previously expressed in this column as to the desirability of putting the profit motive to work in this complex situation affirmed by an outstanding and thoughtful Negro scholar, Dr. Kenneth B. Clark, the psychologist and faculty member of New York City College. Dr. Clark is also consultant to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, president of the Metropolitan Applied Research Center, research psychologist for the Carnegie Corporation, and a member of the Board of Regents of New York State. Dr. Clark feels that business and industry constitute "our last hope," feeling, as he does, that government, the schools, the churches and the unions have fallen on their faces.

Harmony of Interests

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, acting in the tradition of the great economist Henry C. Carey, who in the mid-19th century stressed the harmony of the interests of the groups, believes that the slum problem is too big for any one segment of the community and requires a partnership effort by government, labor, business, education and religion.

In this spirit, its organ rounds up business reaction to the new proposals Richard H. Rich, Atlanta merchant, urges that the community "try to anticipate the problems and not wait until after the rioting to meet immediate needs of the disturbed community."

In the same vein, Dwight Havens, president of the Greater Detroit Board of Commerce, observes: "You can't wait until the thing blows up."

David Rockefeller, president of the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York, comments: "Our central cities are crucial to the economic health of our nation. The same successful managerial techniques that have applied to our businesses must be brought to bear when dealing with our social problems."

Loud And Clear

It seems to me that in a statement to the Nation's Business, Dr. Clark speaks in a loud, clear voice. He says, "Business and industry . . . are the most realistic elements of our society. Other areas in our society have defaulted . . .

"It is now up to business. Other elements can lose in terms of guilt or conscience. But business has profits to lose also. It has efficiency to lose, economy, and, of course, it has tremendous investments it can lose unless there is lasting racial peace.

"Stability is essential to the kind of industrial and economic system we have.

"The main blame I would assign to business is that of insensitivity, apathy, indifference, a Pilate type of washing one's hands, the unwillingness to become involved . . .

"I don't see business as being blamed in terms of direct culpability as intentional. I know this is an old Marxian position which sophisticated social scientists should hold on to — that business had something to gain by maintaining an oppressed group.

"Frankly, I don't buy that."

Dr. Clark lines up with those who want to build a better America in opposition to those perpetually in the conflict business.

The approach should be positive — step by step, with more action and less ballyhoo. Better living is a universal longing, and the only sensible way to reduce poverty is to enhance the productivity of those who are outside the main stream. It is time to take this national need out of the exclusive control of dilettantes and blue sky operators in and out of government.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped self addressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Community Action Shift Stands

Washington (AP)—The House Tuesday stood by a controversial proposal in the antipoverty bill that would put Community Action agencies under the control of state or local governments.

By a 205-111 vote it defeated a Republican attempt to eliminate the provision and preserve the present independent status of the agencies. The attack is expected to be renewed Wednesday.

The Republicans were also rebuffed in other attempts to revise the antipoverty program, but on the Community Action proposal they were fighting the administration's battle.

Added By Committee

The tightened control by public officials over Community Action programs was written into the bill by the Education and Labor Committee in response to criticism that the independent agencies frequently waste money and are irresponsible. It is also designed to pick up badly needed votes for the whole antipoverty program.

The Senate has passed a bill without any such provision. And the Office of Economic Opportunity has declared it would drastically alter the present operation of Community Action agencies.

Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., who offered the amendment to eliminate the provision, said the committee had abandoned the "basic genius" of the Community Action program by putting it under city hall.

Rivals For Power

But Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., a chief architect of the provision, said the record of the program in many cities indicates that antipoverty funds are actually being used to create power centers rivalling city hall.

She said the committee amendment would "stop this nonsense of doling out money to any agency that wants to qualify."

Meanwhile, the Senate refused, after long and sometimes heated debate, to consider an amendment to provide emergency financing for the OEO. The agency has lacked authority to spend money since Oct. 23.

Javits Leads Move

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., led the move to provide temporary operating funds for the agency. Its regular budget for the fiscal year that began July 1 is not expected to receive final congressional approval until next month.

Javits told the Senate that antipoverty projects throughout the country had either ceased operating or would do so imminently unless stopgap financing authority is provided.

In earlier votes the House turned down GOP proposals to shift work and training programs for the poor from OEO to other federal agencies and to set up an on-the-job training program in private industry. The votes were 169 to 108 against the shift of the programs and 140 to 104 against the new private industry job program.

Bellevue Starts Action To Annex Offutt Air Base

Bellevue (AP)—Despite opposition from base officials, the Bellevue City Council has started action on an ordinance annexing Offutt Air Force Base.

The ordinance was approved on first reading but a move to suspend the rules and complete the passage of the ordinance in a single night was rejected, 6-2.

Mayor Robert Havorth said the ordinance now must be read twice more—Nov. 27 and probably Dec. 11.

The annexation would not include the Capehart housing which had been mentioned earlier.

Col. Edward A. Crouchley, base commander, told the council the Air Force opposes the annexation. Earlier he had said preliminary discussions indicated there would be no objection to annexation if it did not interfere with Offutt's military mission.

Burning Car 'Used By Kearney Escapees'

Lincoln police said Tuesday that a car found abandoned and in flames near 1st and J earlier this week had apparently been stolen by four escapees from the Boys Training School in Kearney and used in their flight eastward.

Officers also indicated that the four youths had at least gotten as far as Omaha after escaping from the training school last weekend.

The burning car discovered in Lincoln, which suffered approximately $500 worth of damage, had been stolen from Platte Center.

Officials speculated that the fire was an accident, occuring as one or more of the youths attempted to pour siphoned gasoline from a nearby car into the auto's gas tank.

Omaha police reported the recovery there of a car stolen in Lincoln, police said. The driver of the car told Omaha policemen that he had acquired the car from one of the four escapees, Lincoln officers said.

The fire damaged car, discovered early Monday morning in flames, was at first thought to be the result of disputes between striking workers and management of a nearby trucking company.

Fire officials had decided earlier that newspapers in the gas tank and beside the car indicated that the fire had been set. Police said, however, that the newspapers had probably served as a funnel to guide gasoline into the tank.

Land And Water For Future Eyed

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Omaha—"Land and Water for Tomorrow in the Lower Missouri River Basin" is the object of a three-day seminar that began here Tuesday with representatives from state, federal, industry and business participating in the meetings, which are sponsored by the League of Women Voters Education Fund.

Henry P. Caufield Jr., executive director of the federal Water Resources Council, Washington, D.C., said it is unlikely the council will make a recommendation to the President for the establishment of a Missouri River Basin Commission or the continuation of the Missouri Basin Inter-agency Committee until the governors in the basin make their views known.

He noted that the governors of Colorado, Missouri and South Dakota had proposed the establishment of a Missouri River Basin Commission under Title II of the Water Resources Planning Act of 1965 and that the governors of Nebraska and Minnesota had withdrawn previous requests for a commission without prejudice so they could re-examine the issues involved.

Favor Commission

Caufield said, "It is clear Congress and the federal executive branch favor the River Basin Commission for planning over the interagency committee type of organization."

The seminar—with representatives from agriculture, recreation, navigation, waste disposal and industry—pointed up the competition that will exist in coming years for water in the Missouri River Basin.

Charles Cocks, chief of special studies branch of the Missouri River division, Corps of Engineers, Omaha, presented a look to the future, particularly to year 2020, from data available for the Missouri River Basin.

468 Million

He said the U.S. population was projected to reach 468 million in year 2020, with growth in the Missouri River Basin expected to be slightly over 2½ times as large as its 1960 population.

Cocks said factors influencing water and related land resources planning will include:

—Requirements for a 300% increase in corn and double the present wheat production.

—A triple increase in beef and doubling pork production.

—Five times as much water for municipal and industrial purposes.

—Twenty times as much requirement for power.

—Recreational requirement that will increase from 90 million mandays in the 1960s to 360 million mandays in 2020.

Manufacturing

Cocks said employment in manufacturing is expected to nearly triple in the next 60 years, while employment in other commodity-producing sectors should about double.

"These economic indicators present the problem which faces those trying to anticipate the demands which will be made on our resources in the future," said Cocks.

League of Women Voters Education Committee members from South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri participated in the seminar.

Public relations for the seminar are under the direction of Mrs. William Sutherland of Lincoln. Mrs. J. Russell Wilson of St. Louis, Mo., serves as program chairman.

Nebraskans participating in the program are: Dr. Clayton Yeutter, Dr. Donald O. Clifton, Warren Fairchild, Dean Axthelm, E. C. Reed, James Owen, Dr. Murlin R. Hodgell and Glenn Kreuscher, all of Lincoln.

Pershing College Ousts Six In Lincoln Narcotics Incident

Beatrice (UPI)—Dr. Richard Brengle, president of John J. Pershing College, said Tuesday six students were expelled in the last two days.

The announcement followed a narcotics incident Sunday night during which five Pershing students were taken into custody at Lincoln.

Two male students were released on $1,500 bond each on charges of possession cannabas, the type of narcotic taken from the hemp weed. Another boy and two girls were released without charges.

Dr. Brengle announced the expulsion of six at a surprise appearance before a student convocation. The convocation had been called to elect cheerleaders for the up-coming basketball season.

Dr. Brengle said college officials would continue their close cooperation with all law enforcement officials as they have in the past.

He reaffirmed the position of the staff and faculty of the college, that they are there to provide the best possible education available to the students. He said it is up to the students to use their talents to get the most out of school while they can.

4 Men Charged With Felony Offenses In Assault Outside Royal Grove Bar

Four Lincoln men were charged Tuesday in Lancaster County Court with felony offenses of cutting with intent to wound in connection with an early Tuesday morning incident outside the Royal Grove Bar at 421 W. Dawes.

Each of the four, Robert Simental, Tito Rabago, Stanley J. Blanco and Oliver H. Shaw, requested a preliminary hearing, all of which were set for Nov. 29. Bonds were set by Judge Ralph Slocum at $2,000 each.

The four were specifically charged with assaulting Gary VanAllen, 26, of Beatrice, who according to police, suffered a laceration to his right forearm requiring 100 stitches to close and a laceration to his left side requiring some 15 stitches, as well as abrasions and bruises.

The incident grew out of an exchange of words between the four and VanAllen and Larry Sittner, 27, of 1128 S. 30th, according to police.

Bomb Pause Among Items In Discussion

Washington (AP)—The White House said Tuesday it expects the matter of another bombing pause in Vietnam to come up during discussions this week between President Johnson and his military and diplomatic chiefs here from Saigon.

Press secretary George Christian said, however, he did not wish to overstate the case and that the matter of bombing and a pause in the bombing was only one of a number of things that would be covered. In general, he said, discussions would focus on Vietnam and what could be expected next.

Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker already has arrived here from Saigon and conferred with Johnson Monday.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland will arrive Wednesday from Vietnam along with Robert Komer, the man in charge of the pacification program there.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It

A X Y D L B A A X R
to L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another in this example, A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
